MISSISSIPPI AFFAIRS.

In an interview to-night between the President and a delegation from Mississippians, representing the Conservative and Republican elements of that State, the President said he thought the best plan to quiet opposing parties in Mississippi would be for Congress to authorize the Constitution to be again submitted to the people, a separate vote to be taken on the features objected to by the Conservatives, and that in the meantime the present Military Commander should control the State.

PACIFIC RAILROAD PROGRESS.

Mail service has been extended on the Central Pacific Railroad to the 597th mile, and the track laid to the 612th mile. The grading is finished to Ogden, where the road meets the Union Pacific Railroad on the 51st section.

FORTY-FIRST CONGRESS.

[FIRST SESSION.]

SENATE: Supplement to the National Currency Act Discussed, and Amendments Offered Rejected. HOUSE: Tenure-of-Office—Reference of Senate Amendment to the Repealing Bill Reconsidered and the Amendment Nonconcurred in, After an Animated Debate.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, March 26, 1869.

SENATE.

The bill extending the charter of the City of Washington was passed.

Mr. HOWARD made an ineffectual effort to have the joint resolution granting the right of way to the Memphis, El Paso and Pacific Railroad referred to the Pacific Railroad Committee.

Mr. HAMLIN introduced a bill additional to the acts concerning the government of the cities of Washington and Georgetown; also, to establish a Probate Court in the District of Columbia.

Mr. PATTERSON, a bill relating to judicial privileges in the same.

Mr. ABBOTT, a bill to remove political disabilities from certain persons.

The joint resolution to relieve actual settlers upon certain lands in Arkansas was passed.

Mr. WILLEY introduced a bill for the relief of Judge Taylor, of Virginia, from political disabilities.

The bill to carry into effect the Mexican claims treaty passed.

Mr. WILSON introduced a bill for the protection of soldiers and their heirs against claim agents, which was referred to Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. CHANDLER introduced a bill to detach part of St. Paul from the collection district of Minnesota and to annex it to the collection district of Louisiana. Referred to Committee on Commerce.

Mr. NYE introduced a bill providing that the construction of penitentiaries in Territories shall be under the supervision of the Secretary of the Treasury instead of the Secretary of the Interior. Referred to Committee on Territories.

Also, a bill to insure the completion of the Washington Monument. Referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia. The bill provides for the creation of a body corporate, to consist of A. T. Stewart, C. Vanderbilt, T. C. Sherman, J. J. Combs, J. A. Ross, W. T. Adams, J. M. Wilson, S. A. Smith, C. B. Phillips and Chas. B. Barton, under the style of the Washington Monument Union, for the purpose of devising ways and raising means for the completion of the Washington Monument, and for the erection of a similar one to the memory of Abraham Lincoln.

Mr. HOWARD submitted an amendment, intended, he proposed, as a substitute for the House joint resolution to protect the interests of the United States in the Union Pacific Railroad Company, and for other purposes. The substitute provides that the stockholders of said company, at a meeting to be held in Washington City on the 31st of March, with power to adjourn from day to day, shall elect a Board of Directors for the ensuing year; the stockholders are also authorized to establish their general office at such place in the United States as they may select at such meeting; provided the passage of this resolution shall not confer any other rights upon the company than to hold such election, to be held in any manner to relinquish or waive any rights of the United States, to take advantage of any act or neglect of said company heretofore done or omitted, whereby the rights of the General Government have been or may be prejudiced.

Mr. FESSENDEN made an ineffective effort to have the Indian appropriation bill considered.

The financial bill was then taken up.

Mr. KELLOGG withdrew his pending amendment to Mr. Wilson's amendment.

Mr. WILSON modified his amendment so as to provide that whenever the amount of United States notes and circulating notes of National Banks combined shall be in excess of $650,000,000, the Secretary of the Treasury shall be required to fund in 10-40 bonds United States notes to the extent of such excess, until the amount of notes outstanding shall be reduced to $350,000,000. He said the plan proposed in the amendment would relieve the South and West without doing at the same time injustice to other portions of the country, which would be done by the plan of the Committee.

Mr. CONKLING argued generally against the bill as illy calculated to meet the financial requirements of the country, and declared himself opposed to any legislation for the reduction of the banking circulation in any part of the country. He would not consent, for instance, to the reduction, by a single dollar, of the circulation which the state of New York had received, under an arrangement whereby her own banks, then working prosperously, were, whether wisely or not he would not say, trampled out of existence under the heel of federal power.

Mr. WILSON defended his proposition, and incidentally expressed the opinion that the present financial condition of the country was very satisfactory, and that the national debt would soon be made a very light burden by the rapid development of national revenues.

Mr. SAWYER said it was quite evident Congress would not now consent to any expansion of the currency or increase of the interest bearing obligations of the country, and, therefore, if justice was to be done to the States having less than their proportion of banking circulation, it must be done by transferring to them the excess of circulation in other States.

Mr. WILLIAMS again expressed his opposition to the measures intended to effect the National currency, and said the withdrawal of circulation from certain States proposed by the Finance Committee would be a breach of faith. He moved to amend the amendment of Mr. Wilson by fixing the limit of the issue of circulating notes at three hundred and ten instead of three hundred and fifty million dollars, and by adding a clause directing the Secretary of the Treasury to cancel United States notes as said ten millions of circulating notes are issued.

Mr. SHERMAN denied that the bill proposed any injustice to any portion of the country. The New England States would still have their full share, and one of them (Rhode Island) would have a great deal more than her share. He objected also to the amendment of the Senator from Massachusetts, (Mr. Wilson) and that of the Senator from Oregon, (Mr. Williams) because they involved the question of the funding of greenbacks, which again implied the return to specie payment. The bill reported by the Committee, however, provided simply for a redistribution of the circulation to meet temporarily the requirements of the business of the country, until Congress could mature and adopt some general measure of legislation looking to the resumption of specie payments.

Mr. SPRAGUE denied the statement of Mr. Wilson, that the country, and especially New England, was prosperous. He knew the financial condition of the manufacturers and operators in New England, and he felt perfectly sure, if the manufacturers should close their establishments, as they must soon do unless their business could be made more profitable, in less than two weeks after the suspension the operatives would be thrown upon the charitable for support. He had under his own charge nearly two thousand hands, and he knew that if the mills in which they were employed should suspend work for two weeks, the employers of the town would have to take care of the operatives. The idea of the Finance Committee, that the South could be supplied with working capital by forcibly withdrawing the circulation from the East and sending it there, was fallacious. The capital sent to the South in that way would necessarily be in the hands of a few men, and they would not invest it in the South, for investments there would be insecure; but would take it to New York and speculate with it. There was but one possible way of supplying the South with capital, namely, by so legislating as to make capital cheap at the points where it is localized, so it will naturally seek investment elsewhere.

Mr. MORTON desired the plan proposed would be injustice to the Eastern States, and said the amendment offered by Mr. Wilson was substantially a proposal that the Treasury should pay out two and a half million dollars per annum, in order that New England might be left in undisturbed enjoyment of an unjustly large proportion of banking circulation. The amendment of the Senator from Massachusetts proposed also a direct violation of the act to strengthen the public credit. That law distinctly pledged the country to the redemption of greenbacks in coin; but the Senator from Massachusetts proposed to fund them in 10-40 bonds.

Mr. WILSON said he would like to see all the greenbacks funded, and denied that the bill to strengthen the public credit would be violated by funding them.

Mr. MORRILL said the chairman of the Committee on Finance had stated when the bill to strengthen public credit was under discussion, that it was not designed to prohibit the funding of the greenbacks.

Mr. FESSENDEN—Anybody can see that.

Mr. MORTON said he could not see it. The language of the act contained a distinct pledge that the greenbacks should be redeemed in coin.

Mr. FESSENDEN remarked that the Senator from Indiana, (Mr. Morton,) to be consistent, must be prepared to argue that if a man gave a note to be paid in coin, and the holder of the note afterwards expressed his willingness to accept a bond instead, the debtor could not honestly substitute the bond for the coin, because of his previous promise.

Mr. MORTON said the Senator from Maine's illustration did not state the case fully. He had no doubt the holders of greenbacks would gladly exchange them for bonds.

Mr. FESSENDEN—Would that violate the pledge in the bill to strengthen the public credit?

Mr. MORTON replied it would not violate the pledge to the individual, but it certainly would to the Government. Several plans had been proposed for the redemption of the national obligations, and Congress had finally fixed upon this one, and had solemnly pledged the government to the redemption of these obligations, including greenbacks, in coin. To give the law any other construction would be making it nonsense.

Mr. FESSENDEN complained that the Senator from Indiana had treated him discourteously, in asserting that what he had said was "nonsense." That was not proper language for a Senator to apply to another.

Mr. MORTON denied having made the assertion. What he had said was that the construction which the Senator from Maine wished to put upon the act to strengthen the public credit would make it nonsense. But even if he had said what the Senator charged, he thought it would not have been more discourteous than it was for the Senator from Maine to say, when he (Mr. Morton) was advocating a certain view of the law, that anybody could see that the contrary was the correct view. He had for many years admired the Senator from Maine, but he thought that Senator never appeared to less advantage than when lecturing the Senate, as he had done in this case.

Mr. FESSENDEN—I beg the Senator, when he talks about my lecturing the Senate, to remember that so far as any lecture of mine to-day is concerned, it was addressed to the Senator himself. And I beg it to be understood, also, that he is not the Senate, but only a very small part of it.

Mr. MORTON—That is also very true. These little flings I care nothing about. It does not become one of even my age in the Senate. But the Senator will find that in this case he has lectured me under a mistaken idea of what I said.

Mr. MORTON, speaking of the bill to strengthen the public credit, said it had been carried through the House by the pledge contained in it, that greenbacks would be redeemed in coin, without which it must have failed to pass.

Mr. FESSENDEN said the act simply pledged the Government to the payment of the national obligations in coin, at the earliest day practicable. The object of making that pledge was simply to assure the national creditors that the nation would keep faith with them, and would not be cheated. But there was no pledge that the payment would be made at any particular date. Therefore, if any if those obligations were presented for payment before the Government was prepared to pay in coin, and the creditors should agree to accept something else instead of coin, the pledge would not be violated. He had objection to increasing the amount of interest to be paid by the Government, provided the country would gain nothing by doing so, and he believed that it would gain greatly if the greenbacks could all be put into bonds at five or six per cent interest.

The amendment offered by Mr. Williams to Mr. Wilson's amendment was then rejected.

After some further discussion, the Senate, at 4:45, went into Executive Session.

When the doors were opened, the Senate took up the bill to abolish the office of Chief of Staff, and passed it, and then adjourned till Monday.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. BANKS, from the Committee on Foreign Affairs, reported a joint resolution declaring the sympathy of the people of the United States with the people of Cuba in their patriotic efforts to secure independence and to establish a republican form of government and guaranteeing personal liberty and the equal political rights of all people, and that Congress will give its constitutional support to the President of the United States, whenever he may deem it expedient to recognize the independence and sovereignty of such republican government. Recommitted and ordered printed.

Mr. HILL introduced a bill to amend the act of 27th July, 1868, to provide for an American line of steamships to Europe. Referred to Postoffice Committee.

Mr. POMEROY introduced a bill to protect the rights of actual settlers on the public domain. Referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. DAWES, from Committee on Appropriations, reported a joint resolution for the transfer of $78,000 from the Treasury to the Government Printing Office. Passed.

Mr. MORGAN introduced a bill regulating the date of commission in the army. Referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. BOYD introduced a bill granting lands and the right of way to the St. James and Little Rock Railroad. Same reference.

The House then proceeded to the business of the morning hour, being the call of Committees for private bills.

After the morning hour, during which several private bills were passed,

Mr. CESSNA, from the Committee on Elections, reported in the contested election case from the Twenty-first District of Pennsylvania, that John Covode has prima facie evidence of his right to a seat pending the contest, and gave notice he would call up the report for action next Tuesday.

Mr. PAINE, in behalf of four members of minority in the same case, made a report that the proclamation of the Governor and the other papers do not show a prima facie right in either claimant.

Mr. BURR, on behalf of himself and Mr. Randall, while concurring generally in the views of the minority, submitted some special views. All the reports were ordered printed.

Mr. BUTLER, of Massachusetts, called up the motion to reconsider the vote of yesterday by which the Tenure-of-Office repeal bill was referred to the Judiciary Committee, and suggested that there be added to the House repealing bill an additional section requiring the President to return his nominations to Congress within thirty days of their being made.

Mr. WOOD—Does the gentleman from Massachusetts retract his position of yesterday on this question?

Mr. BUTLER—Not the least in the world.

Mr. WOOD—Well, sir, you know, and we know, that a Committee of Conference is designed as a Committee of Compromise, by which the rights of the House may be jeopardized and forfeited.

Mr. BUTLER—I am not going to ask any Committee of Conference. I assume that the Senate will concur in that proposition. I am sorry the gentleman from New York should have found it necessary to ask whether I had changed my opinion. I am not very likely to do so where I have well considered it.

Mr. ELDRIDGE—We understood on this side, yesterday, that it was the desire of the gentleman from Massachusetts that the matter should go to the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. FARNSWORTH, (sarcastically,)—I regret that the friends of the President have fallen out. [Laughter.]

Mr. BUTLER—I should be very glad to have it go to the Judiciary Committee; but at the request of many gentlemen of the House, who think the course which I propose will be acceptable to all who desire to preserve the rights of the House and the integrity of the Constitution on this subject, I propose to take this course and save time.

Mr. ELDRIDGE—The gentleman on this side of the house desire that the Judiciary Committee may act on the bill: but they supposed that the gentleman from Massachusetts himself desired it.

Mr. BUTLER—I do; but the only act that I would desire the Committee to take, would be the action which I have proposed. Does the gentleman from Wisconsin desire to have it referred?

Mr. ELDRIDGE—Certainly, that is what we voted for yesterday. We desire the action of the Judiciary Committee on the bill.

Mr. BUTLER—I think what I have proposed is a better way to meet the wishes of the gentleman from Wisconsin, and the wishes of the House.

Mr. GARFIELD—Will the gentleman from Massachusetts yield to me a moment?

Mr. BUTLER—Yes, sir.

Mr. GARFIELD—If the allied parties have settled all their matters of differing, I desire to ask a question.

Mr. BUTLER, (interrupting)—Stop a moment, sir. I did not yield for that.

Mr. GARFIELD—Ah!

Mr. WOOD—The gentleman from Ohio must understand we are on his side. I suspect desertion.

Mr. LOGAN—I would say to the gentlemen from Illinois and Ohio (Messrs. Farnsworth and Garfield) that their insinuations, made here, are unworthy of members of the House. Their insinuations about allies in reference to this or any other matter—

Mr. FARNSWORTH—When I think that a lecture from my colleague will be of any service, I will give him due notice; but I am not yet of that opinion.

Mr. LOGAN—I will only say to the gentleman, I am not a lecturer, in the general acceptance of the term. I always submit to his lectures with a good grace, as I did yesterday, however rough they may be, and however uncomely as coming from him.

Mr. BUTLER, resuming the floor, said—I do not think this discussion so valuable as to warrant me in yielding any further. Now let me say to the gentleman from Ohio, Mr. Garfield, that I have as much right to speak for the Republican party as he has. I am as firm an advocate of Republican principles as he is. And when he undertakes to say that I have allied myself with the Democrats, I want to say to him that, whenever they or he are right on a question, I am his or their ally, and whenever he or they are wrong on a question, I am not his or their ally. I will deal with them always on that proposition.

Mr. GARFIELD—I am willing to concede that the gentleman from Massachusetts is always right, and that those who differ with him are always wrong. All that I wished to ask him was whether he intended to have any debate on the question. Those of us who are decidedly in the wrong would like to show ourselves in the wrong, and to put ourselves in the wrong in the Globe.

Mr. BUTLER—That's always so evident that I do not care for any further exhibition in that direction. [Laughter.] I will now yield to the gentleman from Ohio, How much time does the gentleman want?

Mr. BINGHAM—All the time I am entitled to. I ask the favor of the House, independently of the gentleman's leave.

Mr. FARNHAM—That's right.

Mr. BINGHAM—I do not understand this thing of farming out the floor in this way. If the matter will bear discussion, let it be discussed. I undertake to show to the House, if I have liberty to be heard, that the Senate amendment, about which so much ado is made, does substantially repeal everything in the Tenure-of-Office act.

Mr. BUTLER—I have offered courtesy to the gentleman from Ohio. I am sorry he does not recognize it.

Mr. BINGHAM—I recognize the courtesy of the gentleman, but I ask as a matter of justice, which rises above courtesy, to be heard on this bill.

Mr. BUTLER—The gentleman will get all the justice, and he will get his due when he gets justice. [Roars of laughter.]

Mr. NIBLACK said—Reference having been made to the Democratic side, it would not be improper for him to define his position on the question, and which he believed to be the position of his associates. They had always opposed the Tenure-of-Office act. They believed that in most of its provisions it was in conflict with the Constitution. They believed it was an assault on the Executive Department of the Government, and that its tendency was to weaken that branch of the public service. Therefore, as a matter of consistency, and as a matter of principle, whenever the question of the repeal of that law was proposed, they would vote for the repeal. For himself, he should vote for an unconditional repeal of the law. Still, they were in no hurry to do it, just at this particular time. As the late Administration had to exist as best it could, encumbered by the Tenure-of-Office law, they were a little curious to see how the present Administration would get along hampered with it. Nevertheless, they were willing to vote for the repeal of the law, under the lead of the gentleman from Massachusetts, (Mr. Butler,) under the lead of the gentleman from Ohio, (Mr. Bingham,) or under the lead of anybody. He used to prefer, and would generally prefer, to follow the lead of the gentleman from Ohio in all contests of this sort between him and the gentleman from Massachusetts; but in this particular instance the gentleman from Ohio was not a proper leader for the Democratic side of the House, and they would therefore have to transfer their allegiance, for the time being, to the gentleman from Massachusetts. He hoped they were only doing so temporarily. At all events, he (Mr. Niblack) was. [Laughter.]

Mr. WOODWARD said he never spoke for the Democratic party on this floor. He only spoke for himself and his constituents. He did not concur entirely in all the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. Niblack) had said in behalf of the Democratic party.

Mr. NIBLACK disavowed having spoken for the party.

Mr. WOODWARD went on to say that for one he was in a hurry to get rid of the Tenure-of-Office law. He had voted against it last Congress, for a reason which would appear ridiculous to some gentlemen, namely, that it was unconstitutional. He did not know whether it was going to benefit or embarrass President Grant; but he knew the act was the same now as it had been then, and he was in favor of killing, not scorching it. If anybody doubted its unconstitutionality, he would refer him to the report of Senator Sprague's speech in the Senate, where there was a demonstration of its unconstitutionality as nearly absolute as any moral proposition could be made. He did not know whether Senator Sprague originated the proposition or not. It had been intimated he had not; but he did not care who originated it. Senator Sprague had produced it, and he (Mr. Woodward) commended it to the prayerful attention of the gentlemen who were conscientious about the violation of their oath to support the Constitution. According to political science, in all times and in all countries, the removal of executive officers was an executive trust. What did he care that a parcel of Senators, animated by a patriotic motive, or any other motive, came together and declared the executive power shall be executed by a branch of the Legislature. He agreed with what the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. Butler) said yesterday, that the repeal of the Tenure-of-Office act was the most acceptable measure that Congress could offer the people. He was therefore today, as he had always been, against all modification of this unconstitutional measure, and in favor of its absolute and unconditional repeal.

Mr. BUTLER stated the reason why he had moved to reconsider the vote referring this matter the Judiciary Committee was, that he was afraid it could not be got back to the House, as the Committee might not be called on for reports. He moved the previous question.

The House refused to second the previous question, the Democrats voting against it, a circumstance to which Mr. Butler called attention by asking his opponents, "Where are the allies now?"

Mr. BINGHAM then took the floor and made an hour's speech in favor of concurrence in the Senate amendment, examining the whole question in its constitutional, legal and practical bearings. He stated it was perfectly manifest that an unconditional repeal of the law was impossible. The House could not compel the Senate to change its mind.

Mr. BUTLER—Can the Senate compel the House?

Mr. BINGHAM—I understand it cannot; but until the Senate shall change its mind it is impossible to repeal the law simply by an act of repeal. He went on to argue the Senate amendment was a substantial repeal of the Tenure-of-Office act, in as far as that act fettered the President. Therefore he desired the House to concur in it.

Mr. DAVIS argued against the Senate amendment and in favor of an unconditional repeal of the Tenure-of-Office law. He regarded this as the most important measure that would come before the House at this or any future session. In his judgment, the Senate, under the pretext of laying down its power, had drawn to itself all the executive power of the nation. The Senate amendment substituted for the constitutional executive of of one head an executive of seventy heads. He believed, as solemnly as he believed anything, that the Tenure-of-Office act was utterly in conflict with the Constitution. The Senate had, under the Constitution, no executive power whatever. The President could be impeached, if he appointed corrupt officers; but if the Senate should restore corrupt officers, where was the remedy? Could it send the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. Bingham) to try the Senate as it had sent him some months since to try the President? No! The representatives of the people would be in that case remediless and powerless. The Executive would be powerless, and there would be placed in the Senate—unimpeachable, irresponsible, not to be reached under the Constitution or laws—all the executive power which the Constitution had declared that the President should take care faithfully to execute.

Mr. BINGHAM replied to the argument of Mr. Davis.

Mr. HOTCHKISS argued in favor of the Senate amendment.

Mr. GARFIELD also supported the Senate amendment, and reminded the Republican side of the House that the impeachment of President Johnson was based principally on the constitutionality of the Tenure-of-Office act. Still he was in favor of removing the most restrictive features of the law, and that was what the Senate amendment proposed to do. The newspaper press had facetiously divided the parties on this question into "repealers" and "suspenders." He was neither a "repealer" nor a "suspender." He was a "mender."

Mr. HOAR inquired of Mr. Garfield whether he wanted any more power for the Senate than the Constitution gave it, and whether it would not reclaim all that power if the law were absolutely and unconditionally repealed?

Mr. GARFIELD replied that the people had for seventy years slept on their rights, but that finding, under the administration of Andrew Johnson, its power was abused, had passed the Tenure-of Office law. He should vote against referring, against non-concurrence and in favor of concurrence.

Mr. SCHENCK declared that, like his colleague, (Mr. Garfield) he was neither a "repealer" nor a "suspender," but was a "mender." When the bill repealing the Tenure-of-Office act was sprung upon the House, he had in his drawer a bill to modify and amend it.

Mr. BLAIR opposed the Senate amendment, and remarked that by the Tenure-of-Office act the Senate had captured an entirely new power, and the question was whether the House would let that power remain with the Senate. He was utterly opposed to it.

Mr. DAVIS again gained the floor and made another argument against the Senate amendment, declaring that under it the President would come to be a supplicant at the throne of Senatorial power; that it would be to the Executive a constant source of embarrassment; contests and strifes would ever disturb his peace; and that it would give to the Senate a power which would not only be depriving the President of his power, but would be putting him constantly on trial before the Senate.

Finally, at five o'clock, the debate was closed.

The vote on reference was reconsidered, and the motion of reference was withdrawn.

The question was taken on concurring in the Senate amendment, and the House refused to concur by a vote of yeas 70, nays 99.

So the bill goes back to the Senate as a simple repeal of the Tenure-of-Office act.

The following is the vote in detail:

Ames, Armstrong, Asper, Bailey, Beaman, Beatty, Benton, Bingham, Bates, Burdett, Butler (Pa.), Cessna, Churchill, Cobb, Coburn, Coates, Dixon, Dockery, Donley, Duval, Farnsworth, Ferris, Finkelnburg, Garfield, Gilfillan, Hawley, Hill, Hooper, Hotchkiss, Ingersoll, Jenckes, Kelley, Kelsey, Ketcham, Knapp, Laflin, Lamb, Lawrence, Lynch, Maynard, McCarthy, McGrew, Mercur, Moore (O.), Moore (N. The SPEAKER called attention to the want of Committee Rooms in the Capitol, stating there were several Standing Committees that had no rooms, and that in some rooms there were two or three committees.

The House at half-past five adjourned until Monday.

—It is said that another national bank is soon to be organized in Chicago under the control of an experienced banker from Richmond, Va., who has a national bank already with ample circulation, which he wishes to transfer to Chicago. Its capital, and the precise time when it will go into operation, cannot be made known for a few days.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

Bishop Littlejohn, of the new Episcopal Diocese of Long Island, in a sermon Sunday week, stated that the music of the Episcopal communion in Brooklyn was now costing twenty to twenty-five thousand dollars per year. While he acknowledged there was some very fine musical talent, so far as the Church goes, it was almost worthless. The sermon was full of sharp thrusts. The Bishop, in speaking of free churches, very forcibly argued that if what is hoped for the Episcopalian Church in America is ever attained, pew doors will have to be knocked off, and the engraved bits of silver indicating proprietorship to little sections of the house of God must also disappear. The Church must be made as free as the air, and the freedom must be such that all shall be able to enter it with as little restraint as one does who owns a pew and thinks himself on the same level in every way with those who sit about them. These radical views are significant of the changes likely to occur before long in regard to church sittings. Not long since we gave the views of a distinguished Bishop of the Episcopal Church on this subject, very much in in keeping with those of the Bishop of Long Island. Frequent reference of late has been made to the changes in Presbyterian churches from rented to free sittings.

The Christian Intelligencer says that Dr. Buddington thinks the pulpit is a good deal to blame for professedly Christian people holding on to their fortunes until they cannot keep them any longer.

During the late session of the Louisiana Conference, Bishop Simpson, the presiding officer, read a passage from the address of Bishop Pierce, of the Southern Methodist Church, to the colored Conference, recently organized by that Church, in which great love was expressed for them. After the Bishop read the extract, without one word of comment, he sat down. A correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial says immediately one after another of the colored preachers asked the privilege to make a brief statement. The first said he had experienced something of their love—he had sixty shot in his black skin, that one of these friends had put there, and he remembered to have been kept by them many days in the stocks. He wanted to love everybody, but he did hate the ways of some people. The second said that they had loved him so much that, after having been set free at eight years of age, when he was sixteen they sold him again into slavery, and after he bought his freedom again, they tried to re-sell him when he was thirty-six years of age. Others recited their experience of a similar character. It is not often that great professions of friendship are so effectually silenced.

It is stated the Moravians contribute each year an average of eighteen dollars per member for the cause of missions.

A discussion has been going forward among the Dunkards for about six months in regard to feet-washing. The editor of the Christian Family Companion takes occasion to say for himself that he hopes they will continue to wash one another's feet, and that in doing so they may not fail to realize the true intent of the command. A correspondent of the Cincinnati Presbyter, writing from Chicago, gives an account of feet-washing by the Church of God (Winbrennerians) of that city. After the transaction of some financial business, the Pastor proceeded to wash the feet of the men, and a lady to wash the feet of the women of the church. It was accompanied by the kiss of charity given by the officiating members.

The Southern General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States will meet at Mobile, Ala., on the third Thursday of May, 1869. The opening sermon will be preached by the Rev. Dr. Waddel, the Moderator of the last Assembly.

Reference was recently made to the purchase of a handsome piece of property by the Methodists of Boston, for the purpose of providing accommodations for Zion's Herald and the Book Depository in that city, since which we learn the estate covers ten thousand feet of land, and will cost one hundred and sixty thousand dollars. It is right in the heart of the business part of the city. The last General Conference appointed a Board of Commissioners to purchase a more eligible place for the New York Book Concern and Mission Interests of the Church, the present valuable property on Mulberry street not being central enough and badly located. The Commissioners are at work and have in view the purchase of a splendid property on Broadway, near Stewart's store and Grace Church, which will cost nearly a million of dollars.

At a recent ordination service in the German Baptist church, in Detroit, Michigan, the congregation at the close of the service were requested to sing the doxology, "Praise God from whom all blessings flow," to the tune of Old Hundred. There were present Germans, French and Americans, and they all united in singing it, each in their own tongue. Perhaps just such an incident never occurred before. It was truly affecting.

A remarkable revival of religion is prevailing at Carbondale, Illinois. During eight weeks over two hundred persons have been received into the Methodist Episcopal Church on probation, General John A. Logan, one of the brave generals of Sherman's army, among the number.

Rev. Byron Sunderland, D. D., of Washington city, has received a call to the Lee Avenue Reformed (Dutch) Church in Brooklyn.

According to an exchange the increase of the Baptist denomination in this country the last twenty-five years, has been sixty-nine per cent. in churches, seventy-seven per cent. in ministers, and ninety-eight per cent. in numbers. And better yet, the contributions have increased in a much larger ratio—in twenty-five years the contributions for Home and Foreign Missions have increased three hundred and eighty-four per cent.

Among the recent changes made by the late Pittsburgh Conference was the appointment of Rev. J. M. Carr, of New Philadelphia, Ohio, to the pastorate of Beaver Street M. E. Church in Allegheny City, in place of J. W. Baker, placed in charge of Allegheny District. Mr. Carr has the reputation of being an excellent preacher.

NANNIE ANSAR'S STORY.

Somebody came out of the barn when I went by with my milking pails, and caught me about the waist and kissed me.

"Fy! for shame?" said I; "and all the world looking, likely. What will they say of me?"

"Oh," says he, "who minds what they think? They can only say Geo. Gillot loves Nannie Ansar enough to kiss her, and if they could say that Nannie Ansar loved me as well——"

But there was a sharp voice broke in upon us.

"Nannie! Nannie! I want you in a hurry!" and out of the house came Miss Tabitha as though a whirlwind blew her.

Away went George Gillot to his hay, and there I stood before Miss Tabby Gillot, and she put out her gaunt, brown hand and clutched my shoulder tight, and says she:

"Nannie Ansar, I saw my nephew kiss you—has he done it before?"

"Once or twice, Miss Tabby."

"He's a very bad young man, then," said Tabby.

"Bad?" says I. "Oh, no, Miss Tabby—a better never walked."

"Poor, foolish child," says she. "Don't you know he is a rich farmer and you are a servant?"

"I do, Miss," said I, "and all the kinder of him to like me so."

"To like you?" says she. "Well, you are an innocent bit of a girl, I believe, and I'll give you a hint. It is far from from liking, it's nearer hating, when a man makes love to a girl he'd be too proud to marry. George Gillot is going to make Rose Gifford his wife. As for you——"

"Engaged to Miss Gifford!" said I, and my voice was not my own as I heard it. "Then why does he kiss other folks?"

"Because he thinks them fools," said Miss Tabby, and then she walked away, and all my blood seemed turned to gall and there was no such bitter woman under the sky as I. Though why should I hate poor Miss Rose Gifford, instead of George Gillot, no one could tell, though a woman might feel.

One thing I knew right well—I could not stay there. And so that night I went to Miss Tabby:

"I must leave you, ma'am," said I; "I'm going to the city to live."

And she paid me my wages without a word, and that night I was off on the train to New York. I learned a trade in the city and worked at it, but amidst all the stitching I kept thinking of George Gillot. Was he married yet? And had she made him happy—that silly girl, at whom I had heard him laugh so often? and did he know how well I loved him? and how, poor girl that I was, I had twice the truth in me that she had, for I knew her well. Perhaps I grew graver than I used to be, and paler. You may live all your life without love, I suppose, as a blind man born without sight, and never miss it; but to lose it after it has been yours, is a bitter thing, the bitterest we have to bear, I think, and you know I believed George Gillot loved me.

The trade I worked at was the binding of hats, and the hatter was an old bachelor, quiet and fat, but good-natured, and not, as I could judge, past forty-five. It was'nt long before I knew he liked me, nor long before the other girls fell to plaguing me about him. At first I used to shrink from the thought, but I was lonely and he was kind. Not ugly, either, with his firm red and white skin and honest-blue eyes; and something as a daughter feels I felt for him, for awhile, and then it seemed worth while to spend one's life making a good man's house brighter and happier. And at last, when he took me by the hand one day, in no more romantic place than the hatter's shop, and said:

"Nannie, if you'll be my wife you never shall repent it."

I just said—"I don't believe I ever should, Mr. Wharton." And that was all either of us said about it.

I cried a little in my own room, that night, and I took George Gillot's little presents, a ring and a locket and a red-bound hymn book, with my name on it, from my trunk and burned them up. Why I had kept them so long I could not tell. And then I sat down and thought.

"This was not just what I had dreamt of. Long ago, when I was a child and had a happy home, my nurse used to tell me of a fairy prince, who came over the sea to marry a young princess, and I used to think that, some day, such a prince would come for me; and this good man, with his double chin and kind blue eyes, was not a fairy prince, by any means. And afterward, when death took my parents and nothing was left for the little orphan but to work for her daily bread, and gaunt Miss Tabby took me into her kitchen, there was George Gillot, so handsome, so winning, seeming to love me so—and—and—and this was not George Gillot either; but oh! a better man—only a woman's heart is such a foolish thing that she finds it hard to rule it."

Well, after that night, I tried to be happy; and he said to me—Mr. Wharton, I mean—

"Let us be married very soon, my dear."

And I gave him his way. We were to meet at the minister's one morning, and there be married' Kate May would go with me, and Dr. Jallap, the apothecary, with Mr. Wharton; and I meant—God knows—to make that home as happy as a woman might.

I bought no great finery for my wedding—only a pearl grey silk and white bonnet; and I looked, Kate told me, more like a Quakeress than a bride, they were so plain and quiet.

We got there first—to the minister's wife, who had been her Sunday school teacher, to see her new baby—when the door opened, and in walked a tall, fair-haired man—looked at me and stood still, with his eyes on my face. I looked at him, and my heart seemed to stop beating. It was George Gillot!

Only that I could not move I would have ran away. It was so terrible to see him just then!—so altered, too. He was thin and wan, and stooped a little—he who had been as straight as an arrow—and deep, deep in his eyes I saw a look I never thought to see there—a yearning, longing look, as though that which he pined for was always far away from him.

He drew his breath with a little shiver and them he came toward me and said:

"Is it Nannie Ansar!"

I said: "Yes." And, "I hope I see you well, sir?"

That, with my heart throbbing as though it would kill me! But women learn to do these things—the poorest and most ignorant can hide their heart secrets, if they will, God be thanked for it!

"My aunt is dead," he said, after a pause; "she died two years ago. I live in the city now. I have had losses, and bad health, and the farm is mine no longer. I did not know you ever came here, and I have known them so well!"

"I never came here before I said." "I am here to-day to be married."

And I was glad to say it, for it would show him I was was heart free of him at least. But he turned a glance on me that made me start.

"I thought you married five years ago," he said.

"Not I," I said: "but it is longer than that since you were, I've no doubt.

"I?" he said. "The thought has never been in my mind—one woman turned me against the rest of her sex. The woman who jilted me, with all her simple ways, as coolly as the finest belle could."

'I grieve you've had so bad a sample of us, sir," I said; "not that I ever thought Miss Rose Gifford one to be constant long."

"Rose Gifford!" he cried. "Ah, you act well, Nannie Ansar! You know it was you who left me in the lurch, after as much as telling me you loved me. It's only all right you should hear it on your wedding day—you who have poisoned life for me!"

I gave a little scream.

We looked at each other; and the truth came to both of us.

"You were not engaged to Rose Gifford?" said I.

"I never wanted any woman for a wife but you," he said. "I've pined for you these long, long years. And she did this, my Aunt Tabitha. She always wanted me to marry Rose—curse——"

"Hush!" I cried, "do not curse her—she is dead."

And he sobbed.

"Oh, my God, how I have loved you! And how I have met you, and have learned the truth too late."

And he knelt down at my feet.

And all my pride and strength left me. Had I died for it, I must have done what I did. I bent over him and kissed his pale, broad forehead, and his drooped eyelids, and the cheeks over which hot tears stole, and I said;

"I have plighted my troth to a good man who loves me, and I cannot break it. I must be his wife; but I never loved any man but you, George Gillot, and I never shall—Oh, Heaven help me, I never shall."

Oh, was it wicked to say so? To this day I do not know.

I lifted up my head after those kisses, and saw through the window a carriage at the door, and my bridegroom in it. He caught my face at the pane and kissed his hand to me—one foot was on the top of the coach that moment; the next, there came a clatter of horses' feet, a whirl of wheels, shrieks from the people in the street, nothing where the carriage had stood an instant before, and all the crowd rushing in one direction. * * *

I knew nothing more until the women stood about me, and with pitiful voices and streaming eyes told me that my bridegroom was de d! He had uttered but one word after they picked him up—that word was "Nannie!"

Well, Heaven knows I was remorseful and that I wept for him and had meant to be a true wife to him and it was long before I would listen to any word of comfort. But the heart will have its way; and my love and I had both suffered so, and I could not always be cruel to him and to myself—and to-day I am George Gillot's happy wife.

THE RADETKSKY, the Austrian frigate which recently blew up near the island of Lissa, suffered this terrible disaster from the gross carelessness of the crew. It appears that wet cartridges were being dried in the powder room. The ammunition had been unpacked, and quantities of powder were lying about on the floor, and the workmen were consequently commanded to enter the room only in felt slippers. They, however, came in with their boots on, without putting felt slippers over them. The powder, coming in contact with the hard soles of the boots, ignited and a terrific explosion sent vessel and 340 men to destruction. Twenty-three men were saved by swimming after they had been thrown overboard. The frigate was under sail, on a cruise for gun practice, and had no steam up, so that, it is asserted, the accident could not have been caused by the explosion of the boiler or a cylinder.

THE two bodies of the persons murdered recently in Lebanon, Indiana, were exhumed last week, and subjected to a post-mortem examination. The crowd present, numbering about two hundred, appointed eight judges, who sat on one side of the table in the church, where the examination was made. The crowd were marched singly past the bodies, each one being required to touch the bodies, the idea being that when the guilty one touched, the blood would flow afresh from the wounds. The judges pronounced the guilty one not present.

THE amount of snow near Gorham, N. H., has no parallel in the memory of the oldest inhabitant. Fences are entirely obliterated, and people take the most available routes they can find, without regard to prescribed lines of travel. Along the Grand Trunk, as far down as Bethel, the snow is up to the car windows, and in many places much deeper.

THE Green Bay Gazette says deer were never so plenty as they have been this season. They are coming into the settlement, and even into the city every day, chased from the woods by dogs, making straight for the houses and stable-yards.

PITTSBURGH METAL MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, March 26, 1869.

The market has been unusually quiet this week, the sales in the aggregate being unusually small, some of the commission houses reporting that they had absolutely done nothing at all worthy of notice. The demand, with the exception of one or two particular kinds, of which there is little or none in market, is very light; but with only moderate receipts and no unusal accumulation of stock, prices, as a general thing, are pretty well sustained. As we noticed last week, the great proportion of the western iron arriving is being put in on former contracts, so that the quantity really on the market for sale is not as large as might be supposed.

RIVER NEWS.

The weather yesterday was warm and Spring like with occasional showers of rain. The mercury at noon had risen to 68.

The river was swelling steadily last evening, with eight feet in the channel.

No arrivals except the packets. The Kenton for Cincinnati departed with a fair trip.

Capt. Ed Evans, of the Leonidas, arrived from Cincinnati yesterday, having come through by rail, on a flying visit to his family. The Leonidas is now at Cincinnati, loading for New Orleans. Capt. Evans returns again on Sunday.

Mr. Ezra Young, who we believe, has been clerk of the R. C. Gray ever since she came out, has retired from the river, to accept the position of cashier of the Peoples Savings Bank of Allegheny city. Mr. Young, although quite a young man, has made many friends during his career on the river, and, is in every way, admirably adapted for the responsible position to which he has been called.

The new Northern Line steamer, Minneapolis, is a splendid specimen of marine architecture, and is greatly admired by all who have seen her. She will be completed within a very few days, and it is expected will leave for St. Louis and the Upper Mississippi on or about the 10th of next month.

The Collossal, Capt. Cox's new mountain boat, is also nearly finished.

It is reported that the Glendale, which boat left here on Thursday for St. Louis, experienced some difficulty at Glass House.

The St. Marys was to have left Cincinnati yesterday for Pittsburgh.

Among others, the following towboats will get off to-day: Sam Roberts and Panther, for Louisville, the former with 80,000, and the latter with 120,000 bushels; Fearless for Cincinuati, with 100,000; and Boaz for New Orleans with 233,000.

—The Mary Davage and barges arrived at St. Louis on Wednesday.

—The Grey Eagle, Capt. Brennan, is the regular packet for Parkersburg to-day.

—The New York, from Pittsburgh to Nashville, arrived at Cincinnati on Wednesday.

—The Savanna arrived at St. Louis on Wednesday and the Carrie V. Kountz on Thursday.

—The Maggie Hays, loaded nearly to her guards, left St. Louis for Pittsburgh on Wednesday.

—The high headed Emma No. 3, Capt. J. H. Marratta, is announced for Memphis and New Orleans forthwith.

—The Kate Putnam left Cincinnati for Pittsburgh on Wednesday with a good trip. Pilots—Jas. Henderson and Wm. Hall.

—The popular and reliable Lorena, Capt. Sam Shuman, is announced for St. Louis and the Upper Mississippi, forthwith.

—The Missouri River was open at Fort Benton on the 6th inst.; at that point it had only been closed a few days this winter.

—The Arkansas is on her last trip for the season in the New Orleans and Arkansas River trade. She will go to the mountains.

—The new Northern Line steamer Minneapolis, it is expected, will be ready to leave for the Upper Mississippi about the 10th of April.

—Capt. Dave Silver is prospecting on the Ohio for a steamboat suitable to take the place of the Peoria City, on the "O" line of Omaha packets.

—It is contemplated, by certain parties at New Orleans and St. Louis, to establish an opposition line of steamers between the above ports.

—The R. C. Gray, Capt. Isaac Whittaker, is annouuced for Arkansas River and all intermediate points, She is the only boat up for the Arkansas.

—The Shreveport Southwestern says, the boats above the raft will meet with difficulty in passing the wreck of the Cuba No. 2, as she lies across the channel.

—The Quincy (Ill.) Whig of Monday, says: As the Little Eagle was nearing the bridge, Saturday, going up, a train of cars was passing over, but was made to halt until the draw had swung round and the steamer passed through.

—Capt. Hamilton, of Cincinnati, has succeed in getting a subscription of $18,000 for the removal of the Cairo dry docks to Memphis. Probably the balance of the amount required—$20,000—will be subscribed when the docks are taken there.

—The contract for transportation from St. Louis to Fort Benton, and all way points on the Missouri River, to move Government supplies, has been awarded by Qurtermaster-general Meigs, and approved by General Sherman, to John N. Bofinger, of St. Louis.

—The new steamer Collossal, Capt. M. A. Cox, and the Mollie Ebert, Capt. G. W. Ebert, both tip top boats, and in all respects adapted for their long voyage, are announced for Fort Benton. The Ida Rees No. 2, Capt. Thompson, is also announced for the same place.

—The Franklin (La.) Banner, says: "Capt. E. B. Trinidad has gone to Cincinnati, and perhaps will go to Pittsburgh, to purchase a steamboat for the salt company, to take salt from Petite Anse Island to market. They will soon have 1,000 or 2,000 sacks ready for transportation.

—The Silver Bow reached St. Joseph on the 22d; she knocked a hole in her bottom at Prentiss' Bend, and ran on the bar and repaired damages. On her arrival at St. Joseph an attachment was levied on her by Capt. Kerwood, for $2,366, but bonds were given and she resumed her voysge.

—The Importer arrived at St. Louis from New Orleans the other day, after an absence of nine months. She has been running in the Arkansas river and New Orleans trade, and is said to have made more money than any St. Louis boats that went below this season. She will be immediately docked and renovated for a mountain trip.

—The Vicksburg Times of Sunday, says: The Frank Pargoud and the Dexter had several lively runs between this port and New Orleans coming up. The Pargoud left Red River Landing with the Dexter three miles ahead, and it was "nip and tuck" then until the Pargoud came along side, when the two locked and run together for fifteen miles.

—The St. Francis had a narrow escape from destruction recently, during her passage to Memphis, twenty-five miles below Memphis, in consequence of a fire, which, by some accident, ignited with the floor and ceiling of her kitchen. By prompt action the flames were quickly extinguished before they had got the mastery, though the damage was considerable.

—The Evansville Journal of Tuesday, says: B. B. Taylor, of Madison, an old steamboat clerk, was a passenger by the Richmond, on Sunday. He went South to seek health, but instead of improving has, we regret to say, rather proved worse. He was unable on Sunday to rise from his couch. Ben has a noble heart, and we are pained to see his health so shattered.

—A Louisville special to the Cincinnati Commercial, says: The proposed dam of Gen. Weitzel across the head of the head of the falls excites serious opposition in all quarters. The Pittsburgh coal-boat pilots, and Captains and owners declare it a vital blockade of the river; that it will be impossible for boats to ascend the falls at any stage of water. The dam and bridge completed being impassable barriers, the city authorities are being aroused, and citizens who have use for wharf space declare that the harbor will inevitably fill up by constructing the dam, and the boatmen all concur in the belief that the canal will be the only outlet for boats, as it makes the canal a dire necessity, or else Louisville is the head and foot of steamboat navigation.

LATER returns show the re-election of all the "bolting" Democratic legislators in Indiana. In forty, of the forty-six counties, no Republican opposition was made.

THE erection of the Washington monument has again excited attention from Congress and a bill to secure its completion has been introduced and referred to the proper Committee. The nation is slow to honor the Father of his Country, but we are not without hope that the present generation will live to see proud monuments rise in the Capital of the country in honor of a WASHINGTON and a LINCOLN.

GEN. NEGLEY pays a fitting complement to the Welsh citizens of the district, in leaving open an appointment, to be filled on their nomination, for a young man who will have "a chance to acquire splendid education in the position." We do not know what place is referred to, but we do know that in honoring the Welsh element General NEGLEY does a wise and proper thing, as no class of our citizens are more closely identified with the principles of the great Republican party.

THE leading Federal appointments for the XXIId District have been fairly made, and in accordance with the previous public anticipations. We need only repeat that there is a general public satisfaction with the results which have thus attended the discrimination and influence, both official and personal, of Representative NEGLEY. Nor could we have a fitter occasion than this to congratulate him upon the success with which he is inspiring his constituents with the faith that they have a living, active and efficient Representative at the Capital of popular opinions in Allegheny county.

THE FRIENDS of the Chartiers Railway, by whom we mean not the folks who do the wind-work, but the substantial people who are willing to back up their opinions and wishes in substantial promises to pay—are doing yeoman-like service on the projected line, and especially among the farmers and burghers of Washington county, in the way of subscriptions to the stock. We do not yet feel authorized to state that the friends of the road have got far enough to be able to see out of the woods, but there are hopes of this at an early day. Ever since the fact became generally known that not a rail would be laid, nor a dollar spent, in the construction of this road, until the people most deeply interested should come squarely up and face the music, upon the very generous terms preposed to them by the Pennsylvania Railroad—a new and more promising spirit has animated them. The conviction that this wealthy corporation, willingly assuming the heaviest part of the burden, could not cajoled or diplomatised into taking it all, and that its last proposition was absolutely the ultimatum, produced the most excellent results. It was only needful for all parties to comprehend the situation, to unite them in the movement which now promises success.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Things seem to be very much out of joint! For the seven years past we have been taught to look to Ohio for the most successful soldiers, statesmen and orators of the Republic. In fact, people were beginning to believe either that the Buckeye State was unusually prolific of eminent men, or that such as she did really possess were more than usually active in putting themselves prominently before the National Eye. But we don't hear so much of Ohio, just now. It is Massachusetts which begins to dispute her exclusive title to furnish to the Republic all its capable servants. An unusual development of aptitude for public affairs is seen in that ancient Commonwealth. And it begins to be seen beyond its own limits. Boston has always been remarkably happy in the extraordinary number of its "eminent citizens." In this category were included from ten to twelve per cent. of its entire voting population over the age of thirty years. This is so well known in Boston as to constitute a staple topic for conversation and of mild self-congratulation in its literary, professional and political circles. It is only now that the rest of the world begins to find it out. Not only the hub but the provincial periphery of that quarter of creation sparkles and radiates with an universal coruscation of statesmanship. In fact, it is an embarras des richesses. Massachusetts finds such a multitude of eminent men altogether inconvenient. They stand in each other's way; they crowd upon each other's toes; in fact, the State being none of the largest, and each of its great men being none of the smallest, these men of mark find it absolutely necessary for their comfort to overflow upon the nation at large.

And the nation finds the situation not without difficulty. It can take two of its Cabinet officers from Massachusetts, but matters are not to stop there. Because it has placed BOUTWELL and HOAR, must it also find room for MOTLEY? And why not? If Ohio does not protest, let the five and thirty States hold their peace. Surely, the Republic needs good servants, and will take them wherever she can find them. Any other doctrine is simply bosh!

OUR RIVER NAVIGATION.

The Parkersburg Times is informed that the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company will soon have trains running from Baltimore to Cincinnati without change of cars.

We shall heartily congratulate the friends of that great corporation upon their attainment of any increased facilities, for their own interests and for the public accommodation, but only when these are secured with a just regard for the public rights. The paragraph quoted intimates, in the most delicate manner possible, that the new railway-bridge at Parkersburg is to be "soon" completed for use. In the construction of this bridge, it is well-known that needless and ruinous obstacles are interposed in the navigation of the Ohio River—a wide stream which washes the coasts and bears the traffic of eight great States. It would have been quite practicable so to have guarded this construction as to reduce the resulting obstacles to a minimum, which the navigation interests would have accepted as unobjectionable. This possibility is not unknown to the Federal authority, to which the just objections of the public at large, against the present erections, have also been communicated. Upon a hearing of parties representing all the interests concerned in the question, the House of Representatives passed a resolution ordering the suspension of the work, until the merits of the controversy could be fully investigated. That resolution sleeps in a Senate Committee, since the closing week of the XLth Congress. And the great railway corporation, which the resolution would restrain, remains master of the situation, snaps its soulless fingers at the great navigation interests of this valley, and already advertises, in this way, its ability to defeat any legislation, to protect the use of a once navigable river which these railway directors would pump dry if they could.

We cannot forget that, at one period, there were Senators, among them MORTON, who were actively conspicuous as champions of the navigation interests on this river. Shall we not deplore the mysterious causes which have so suddenly and completely reduced them to silence? Is it because other and graver questions of public importance have risen, to occupy their Senatorial councils? Surely, now that these have either been disposed of, or adjourned to another day, the friends of a free navigation, if it has any in that body, can find an hour to devote to a topic of such solid consequence to the material prosperity of all that territory which the Ohio drains. We appeal to Senators, in behalf of popular interests which have already exhausted every other channel of application for Federal relief from most injurious encroachments, not to close the present session without taking up and enacting the House resolution. It cannot be put off, for have we not been significantly advertised that next December will be too late to avert the mischief, and too late to repair the damage which, by its fatal vantage of possession, a powerful corporation will be enabled to perpetuate.

We now learn that the Senate Committee on Roads and Canals is engaged in the consideration of this subject, and that it adopts some valuable provisions, at the suggestion of our vigilant representative. We venture to suggest that their deliberations should be supported by seasonable action, and that the resolution should be reported to the Senate at the earliest possible day, and put through by yeas and nays.

OUR OWN INDIAN WRONGS.

The country welcomes the intelligence that a radical change of system is to be introduced in the management of our Indian affairs. It is time. Hardly have SHERIDAN'S winter-worn campaigners encamped for repose, after what we hoped would prove the complete suppression of Indian hostilities, when we hear of fresh outbreaks from a half dozen different sections of frontier territory. From Utah, from the Texian border, from the Upper Missouri, from Alaska, and even from the more than half civilized Cherokees, come the complaints of the tribes whom we seem to be abusing with worse than a Punic faith. Everywhere, it is the same old, old story; treaties broken, stipulations repudiated, promises neglected, rights, shadowy and feeble as the rights of these poor Indians must be, trampled under foot—this is what we again hear, and it is uniformly the opening chapter in what, but for GRANT and the hopeful popular expectations, will again be the wretched history of another Indian war. Our Agents defraud these unhappy dependents upon our arbitrary power; our traders cheat them, our pioneers rob and kill them at every cowardly opportunity; we ruin their hunting-grounds, demoralize their warriors and corrupt their women with every horrible vice; if we have spared to them reservations, with promises of protection and culture, our officials combine with the sharp speculators of the border, to take their corn-fields, even the sites where their lodges are clustered, from under their feet, so that an Indian treaty has come to be only another name for the organization of a new raid upon every public and private right of these miserable outcasts from the faintest shadow of American justice—the exposure of fresh carrion for the foul birds of every grade who have feasted for thirty years on the plunder of every Indian tribe. We could almost be persuaded to say, when we recall the shameful history of the Indian dealings from people, that it would indeed be a Providential mercy to themselves, which could speedily extinguish the last Indian life within the limits of our "free, enlightened and generous" Republic.

Well, President GRANT promises to change all this. Let us bid him GOD speed—and that quickly. He has but to lay the axe of authority at the root of the mischief. That is not deep; it has had no occasion to hide itself; it stands up as flagrantly to public view as the knee-roots of a swamp cypress. Let him reform the personal administration of Indian affairs, by a clean sweep of every man now in it; there is no surer way of catching all the rascals! Let him try what can be done with new and honest men! In that sort of discrimination he has not yet been known to make a mistake. Let him do what we all know he wants to do, and do it as we all know he can, and before his official term expires the country will have heard the last of Indian "rings," of Indian outrages and of Indian wars.

THE CUBAN QUESTION.

We think that the statements in the annexed dispatch from Washington may be relied upon. It appears that the Administration is in no danger of plunging the country into premature and inexcusable complications, in its foreign policy, as regards the West Indian islands. The dispatch says:

It is understood that the whole subject was discussed at the Cabinet meeting yesterday, when the Secretary of State asked the advice of the President and other members of the Cabinet. The Government is disposed to move with great caution in the matter, especially in view of the fact that, from information in its possession, the revolutionary party in Cuba is by no means as formidable as represented, nor is there much likelihood of the insurgents being able to either establish or sustain a provisional government for any length of time. The Government is also informed officially that the Spanish authorities at home are shipping, not only large numbers of troops to Cuba, but abundance of arms and munitions of war. Except the insurgents receive substantial aid from outside sources, it is hardly possible that they can hold out long against the powers which Spain is bringing to bear upon them. Our Government sympathises with the Liberal party in Spain, and many high officials here think that the efforts of the Cuban insurgents are calculated to distract and weaken the home government; and as they believe Cuba will be ours in good time, they are not disposed to interfere unnecessarily in the present squabble.

Amusements.

OPERA HOUSE.—The admirers of Mr. Jefferson, who for two weeks past has been playing "Rip Van Winkle," at the Opera House, had an opportunity of seeing him in different characters. He appeared in the role of Sir Hugh de Brass, in "A Regular Fix," and Mr. Golightly, in "Lend Me Five Shillings." The casts in both pieces were good, with perhaps one or two exceptions. Mr. Jefferson is decidedly funny, and the audience, which was a large and appreciative one, appeared delighted with the entertainment: but it is quie evitdent to all who have seen Mr. Jefferson that his strong hold "Rip Van Winkle," in which character he will appear this afternoon and evening.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—The arrangements for the Old Folks concerts which are to be given at the Academy of Music, on Monday and Tuesday evenings, the 29th and 30th inst., have all been completed, and the costumes which were ordered from the East have arrived. Some of the best musical talent in the city, will take part in these concerts, and they promise to be the most attractive and brilliant of the season.

PITTSBURGH THEATRE.—The entertainments at the Pittsburgh Theatre under the present management, are beyond question the best variety exhibitions ever witnessed in this city, and reflect credit on the manager, Mr. Williams. Mr. Dick Carroll is an immense card at this establishment, and the "Dog Drama" as presented by the Blanchards and their trained dogs is drawing full houses. Lillie Becket continues to enliven this establishment with her dashing manners and brilliant songs.

THE MUSEUM.—The Museum was a center of attraction yesterday to the throng which crowded Fifth avenue. Major Burnell always maintains his establishment up to the standard, and reaps a righ harvest for his enterprise.

UNIVERSALIST FAIR.—This Fair will close this evening without fail. Those who wish to enjoy a pleasant evening or secure any of the valuable articles on exhibition should make a note of the fact.

A Valuable Present.

Thursday evening, about half past seven o'clock, the front door bell of Mr. Moses Walsh's residence, in South Pittsburgh, was violently rung. Upon answering the summons, Mr. Walsh discovered lying upon the doorstep an infant, apparently about two weeks old, carefully wrapped up and quietly sleeping, looking as though it has just been taken from its cradle. There was no clue by which the fortunate recipient could discover the kind donor of the precious gift, and it was taken and kindly cared for until to-day, when a charitable association of this city took it in charge.

THE COURTS.

District Court.—Judge Kirkpatrick.

FRIDAY, March 26.—Owners of the tow boat "Lioness" vs. owners of the tow boat "Panther." Action to recover damages, sustained by a collision alleged to have been caused by the negligence of the defendants or their agents.

Common Pleas—Judge Mellon.

FRIDAY, March 26.—The next case taken up was that of McIntosh, Hemphill & Co., vs. Pittsburgh Brick Manufacturing Company. This was an action on a book account. Verdict for plaintiff for $7,078,07.

The case of John P. Vance vs. James O'Neill, surviving partner of O. P. Berry & Co. This was an action for work and labor done. On trial.

The jury was discharged with the thanks of the Court, and next week there will be no jury trials. The argument list will be taken up.

Quarter Sessions—Judge Stowe.

FRIDAY, March 26.—The case of the Commonwealth vs. Samuel McKain, indicted for assault and battery, Mrs. L. C. Lytle prosecutrix, was taken up. The circumstances of the case are as follows: The defendant is a grocer, doing business on Federal street, Allegheny, and the prosecutrix resides in the upper portion of the house occupied by defendant. On the 23d of June, it is alleged she entered his store for the purpose of making some purchases, when the defendant took hold of her arm, asked permission to kiss her, and made other indecent proposals to her. She states that she resented the insult and went up stairs and informed her mother of what had occurred, and a few days afterwards made information upon which this prosecution was based. The case was a very tedious one, and occupied the attention of the Court for the greater portion of the day, most of the time being spent by the defense in attempting to break down the testimony of one of the Commonwealth's witnesses. Messrs. Moreland, Moore and Kerr appeared for the defendant, and Gen. Blakely and District Attorney Pearson represented the Commonwealth. Jury out.

The case of the Commonwealth vs. John Sullivan, indicted for arson, was next called up. The offense with which the defendant was charged was setting fire to the Pittsburgh Glasshouse, in Birmingham, on the 25th of January, 1869. The defendant is a boy about fourteen years of age, and from his appearance, is not sound of mind. The boy, after setting fire to the establishment, went to Marysville, Ohio, where he was afterwards arrested, and then, it appears, confessed to to having set fire to the glasshouse. The case was submitted without argument and the Court charged the jury that there were cases on record where parties had been convicted on their own confession, and it was afterwards ascertained beyond question, that they were innocent. It was a matter for the jury, however, and if they found anything in the case to corroborate the confession, they might find him guilty. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty. The Court then called the defendant up, and, after questioning him, stated that the proper steps for sending him to the House of Refuge would be taken. The prisoner was remanded.

The time for which the jurymen had been summoned having expired, they were discharged with the thanks of the Court.

Teachers' Social Re-union.

Last evening the first sociable of the Teachers of the two cities and vicinity was an event of no ordinary occurrence, and will long be remembered by those who were fortunate enough to be present and participate in the re-union. Notwithstanding the drizzling rain in the forenoon, the weather in the afternoon became delightful, and in the evening the cheerful rays of the silvery moon rendered the occasion all that could be desired. The Sociable was held in the elegant new building, recently erected in the Eleventh (old Seventh) ward, near Centre avenue and Green street, almost in the rear of General Moorhead's residence.

This grand pile is a beautiful specimen of architecture, and is thought to be one of the best arranged buildings for school purposes in the State. It is certainly the best building of the kind in the West, and its excellencies are worthy of being briefly described. The lot is two hundred by one hundred feet, and the building has a frontage of one hundred and twenty feet. The main part is four stories high, with a cupola, with wings on either side. In the rear is a building for various purposes, with a large hall for holding ward meetings. There is also a very large chamber on the third floor for lectures, etc., where the interesting speaking exercises took place last evening. The cost of the building is about seventy-five thousand dollars, the amount necessary having been secured by the issue of bonds—sold at par, a piece of financiering which reflects credit upon Max. K. Koorhead, Esq., President of the Board of Directors, and his associates. The building has accommodations for fifteen hundred pupils. At the present time there are between seven and eight hundred scholars in attendance, under the charge of Prof. Taggart, an accomplished teacher, and we believe twelve other teachers. The present Board of Directors are Max. K. Moorhead, Captain J. Atkinson, Charles Meyran, A. A. Moore, Henry Ford, and Mr. Tharmon. Great praise is awarded James Robb, Esq., one of the directors when the building was in course of erection, and also the services of Capt. Mays, late of the Board, are kindly remembered. We are indebted to Messrs. Moorhead and Meyran for particulars in regard to the building.

On reaching the place we found the building brilliantly lighted up, and the spacious edifice crowded with happy people. The guests were received at the entrance by the committee and made to feel at home from the moment they entered the dwelling. The reception hour lasted from half past seven to half past eight, immediately after which the guests and teachers assembled in the main building to hear addresses and vocal and instrumental music. An organization was effected by calling Gen. Moorhead to the chair, and the appointment of John Wilson, Vice President, and Prof. Taggart, Secretary. After a sweet song by the Allegheny Quartette Club, Profs. Wm. Slack and Horner, Walter Slack and Mr. Darling, General Moorhead delivered a brief address, in which he alluded to the difficulties overcome in establishing the Common School system. He paid a high tribute to the valuable services rendered by Thaddeus Stevens and Gov. Wolfe in the noble cause. The speech of the General was happy throughout.

Prof. C. J. Luckey, the efficient and popular City Superintendent, announced the following sentiment: Teachers' Reunion—May they fuse teachers into a more perfect fraternization, and abate the evils of their isolated positions. The Chairman called upon Colonel R. Biddle Roberts of the Pittsburgh bar to respond. The Colonel responded in his usual felicitous manner, his speech being received with demonstrations of pleasure. Rev. O. A. Bartholomew responded to the sentiment, "Educational Progress," in a sensible speech. The last sentiment, "School Aesthetics," was responded to by W. D. Moore, Esq., of the Pittsburgh Bar. The address was scholarly and chaste. During the time the people were gathering in the hall, and at intervals in the evening, a band discoursed excellent music.

Shortly after nine o'clock the Supper room was thrown open and was soon crowded. For about two hours the room was filled, discussing the nice things on the table. The committee had provided liberally of substantials and refreshments, such as fancy cakes, ice-creams, pyramids, and other elegant things, prepared in the mast artistic style of the confection art. Large as the crowd was, every one was abundantly supplied. It is enough to say that the supper and refreshments were furnished by Jacob B. Hubley, Esq., whose reputation is widely known for furnishing first class articles. The ladies in the management were profuse in their acknowledgments for Mr. Hubley's kindness and generosity in the matter.

We noticed quite a number of well known educators, among whom were A. T. Douthett, the popular County Superintendent, Prof. Burt, Mr. L. H. Eaton, and Mr. Pryor. Quite a number of influential citizens of the ward were quite active in making the guests happy and comfortable, prominent among whom were N. P. Reed, Esq., and G. H. Anderson.

After supper most of the guests repaired to the hall to dance until the small hours of this morning.

Carpenter Shop Robbed.

Some time Thursday night or early yesterday morning, some thieves entered the carpenter shop of Mr. Cochran, on Frazier's alley, Fifth ward, Allegheny, near Sedgwick street, and carried off a quantity of tools, in all about fifty dollars' worth. The thieves effected an entrance by boring a hole through one of the shutters and unfastening the hasp which held them together. After rummaging around the shop, breaking open several chests and stealing some of the most valuable tools, they departed through the door, leaving it unfastened as they retired. There is not the slightest clue which might lead to the detection of the depredators.

Proceedings of the Legislature—Bates' History of the Pennsylvania Volunteers.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

SENATE.

HARRISBURG, March 26, 1869.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

By Mr. GRAHAM: Allowing the School Board of the Eighth ward, Allegheny city, to borrow forty thousand dollars for building purposes; authorizing the Trustees of the First Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, to remove and dispose of dead bodies.

By Mr. ERRETT: Making the Seventh ward, Allegheny, and Reserve township, independent school districts.

BILLS PASSED.

Mr. SEARIGHT called up the bill granting a pension to Daniel Bolin, a soldier of 1812, which encountered opposition on account of the alleged disloyalty of Bolin. The bill passed finally—yeas 18, nays 8.

Adjourned till Tuesday morning.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The Tax bill from the Senate was reported affirmatively.

Mr. MORGAN, of Allegheny, unavoidably absent last night, recorded his vote affirmatively for the constitutional amendmdnt.

The sheep brokers bill was postponed until Wednesday.

The bill relating to Bates' history of Pennsylvania Volunteers passed finally, amended, by striking out Benjamin Singerly as printer thereof, and substituting Josiah R. Sypher, at three dollars and fifty cents per volume, being a reduction of one dollar and fifty cents on Singerly's bid.

Mr. MORGAN opposed an amendment reducing the number of copies of each volume, from ten to two thousand, believing that every soldier should have a copy, and this amendment was lost.

Adjourned till Monday evening.

NEWS BY CABLE.

SOUTH AMERICA.

LONDON, March 26.—Letters from Paraguay report that Lopez was at Pirabibi, a town fifteen leagues from Ascunion, with three thousand soldiers. Thirty thousand non-fighting people, consisting of families who abandoned their homes and followed him to the interior, are encamped in the vicinity. General Mitre, with the allies forces, had marched into the country to seize certain mountain passes, the occupation of which would prove fatal to the Paraguayans.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

FRANKFORT, March 26.—U. S. Bonds 87⅜.

Markets by Telegraph.

CHICAGO, March 26—Evening.—At the open board in the afternoon there was a fair movement in Wheat: No. 2 spring selling at $1,11⅛@1,11½ cash, and $1,11½@1,12 seller, April. Corn and Oats inactive and entirely nominal in the evening. No 2 Wheat sold at $1,12 seller, April. Nothing whatever doing in Provisions.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26.—Flour—sales of shipping grades at $4,45@4,50. Wheat moderately active at $1,45@1,65. Legal Tenders 77¾.

BUFFALO, March 26.—There has been no business transacted on change to-day, and quotations nominally unchanged.

EXAMINE BEFORE CONDEMNING.

One of the most important considerations to those who wish to live happily, is that of human health; a fact well known and deeply deplored by all who have lost or had it impaired. We know well enough that the thousands of compounds for its restoration are in many instances merely the inventions of those who desire to beguile the public and enrich themselves. It therefore becomes those who do not wish to be imposed upon, to examine the proof of the efficacy of a medicine, before trusting to its merits, or tampering with their health. DR. KEYSER'S BLOOD SEARCHER, in the class of diseases for which he recommends it, is without a peer or a rival. It stands among blood purifying and alterative medicine, as the Alps among mountains, overtopping them. The rich vegetable juices of which it is composed are sure to renew the blood and re-invigorate the frame of man. We wish it understood, however, that we speak solely of chronic diseases—and those which have their origin in a depraved and cachectic state of the system. We would much rather that not one bottle of this great Blood Searcher should ever be sold, than it should not do good; and in every case to which it is suited, it will do good. There are thousands of readers of the GAZETTE who have some slight indisposition or ailment inconveniencing or interfering with the enjoyment of life, who could be cured by the use of less than a bottle of Dr. Keyser's Blood Searcher. Especially is this true at this season of the year, when the powers of life, like the changes of the seasons, are emerging from the state of winter to spring, and spring to summer. The dollar that you expend to buy it will be regarded as of little consequence when placed in the scale with that renewed energy and elasticity of health which it will be sure to impart. And besides, the tone which it gives is lasting and real, wholly unlike the fiery and spasmodic glow imparted by most alcoholic stimulants; for whilst these corrode and depress the system when their stimulating effects have passed off, that invigorates the stomach, renews its vital powers, heals its irritated coats, and enables it to concoct and convert into chyle the food which is received into it for that end. No one can over-estimate the value to health of a single bottle of Dr. Keyser's Blood Searcher at this season of the year. It will make life and health to bloom under its influence like the genial rays of the sun invigorates and starts into life the whole field of Nature. SOLD BY THE GROSS, DOZEN OR SINGLE BOTTLE, AT THE DOCTOR'S GREAT NEW MEDICINE STORE, NO. 167 LIBERTY STREET. DR. KEYSER'S CONSULTING OFFICE FOR ALL CHRONIC DISEASES, NO. 120 PENN STREET, FROM 10 A. M. UNTIL 4 P. M.

THE TRYING SEASON.

The searching winds, the cold, drizzling rains, the heavy fogs, and occasional warm and moist days of March, render it upon the whole, the most unhealthy month of the year. Its depressing influences are especially unfavorable to invalids, and thousands of persons with feeble constitutions, who have borne the winter bravely, break down in the first month of Spring. The variations of temperatvre and cold east winds are a serious trial to the dyspeptic and bilious, whose symptoms they invariably aggravate. Intermittent fever is also rife wherever there is evolvable poison in the water or the soil. To enable the system to combat these evils, there is nothing like a good vegetable tonic and among this class of medicines HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS stand supreme. Medical men prescribe it in preference to any of the tonic preparations of the pharmacopoia. They are aware that the ordinary tincture and extracts are all based upon cheap alcohol, which is surcharged with an acrid essential oil, and absolutely poisonous. They know, on the other hand, that the rectified essence of the finest rye grown in this country is the sole spirituous ingredient of HOSTETTER'S BITTERS, and that the vegetable medicinal elements of which it is composed are of rare efficacy. Hence, it has the confidence of physicians, and finds its way into hospitals where no other proprietary medicine is sanctioned.

A course of the BITTERS is especially recommended to persons of delicate habit, of both sexes at this season. In the fever and ague districts of the West and South, quinine has been almost universally discarded as a chologogue, and this valuable antidote to malarious disorders adopted in its stead. A double gain is realized by the change, for the Bitters, unlike that dangerous alkaloid, are agreeable to the palate, and their curative effect is much more permanent.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

IN DESCRIBING A

RECEPTION

AT THE WHITE HOUSE,

The Washington Star Says:

"A peculiar style of wearing the hair, last evening, among the ladies, was a subject of much comment, and the remarks were, for the most part, altogether in its favor, as a becoming substitute for the waterfall."

An exchange says: "Now that the 'waterfall' is a little passé, it is rumored that it originated not in Paris, but in India." The luxuriant, glossy tresses of the maidens of the Indies have, for centuries, been celebrated and sung by a thousand bewitched poetasters, while the secret of their highest charms remained undiscovered. It was left to Burnett, the famous Boston chemist, to solve the mystery, in the invention of the article styled "COCOAINE," by which the active principle of cocoa-nut oil (a product which the natives used,) is secured in a deoderized and liquid form, delightfully perfumed and chemically combined with other ingredients. This compound forms an article unrivalled in excellence, upon which the public has, for years, set its seal of enduring approval. Its fame is unrivalled."—Cincinnati Enquirer, Feb. 19, 1865.

Burnett's Cocoaine

Is the hair-dressing which the belles and fashion of this country use. The effect upon the glossiness and richness of the appearance of natural and artificial hair is equally durable, splendid and efficacious.

"Burnett's standard preparations are celebrated throughout the civilized world."—N. Y. Tribune.

Burnett's Standard Preparations

Are just now all the rage among the ladies, who generally indorse them as unrivalled. They express themselves as highly delighted with and dwell with no slight enthusiasm on its wonderful effect in promoting and preserving the beauty of the hair.

Burnett's Cocoaine,

Burnett's Kalliston is qually admired as a healthful, fragant and beautifying cosmetic. Burnett & Co. are also the proprietors of the choice perfume called and of the pleasing dentrifice,

Burnett's Florimel,

Burnett's Oriental Tooth Wash.

They have since added

Burnett's Cologne Water

to the list. It is much admired by connoiseurs, among whom it has acquired the reputation of being second to none other, foreign or domestic.

BURNETT'S FLAVORING EXTRACTS

Take unexceptional rank as the best made in America. They are carefully prepared from fruits and spices of the best quality. Their universal success is based upon their merit. Reference is made to the principal Purveyors, Confectioners and Hotels in the United States.—Chicago Tribune.

COMMENTS OF THE PRESS

We heartily recommend them to all our readers.—Leslie's Family Magazine.

Once used, they recommend themselves.—Christian Freeman, Boston.

Burnett's reputation is a sufficient guarantee of the excellence of his preparations.—Boston Journal.

We learn from the first confectioner of this city that Burnett's Extracts of Fruits and Flowers are equal to the English articles of the same kind of the highest celebrity.—Montreal Witness.

SUBSTANTIAL TESTIMONY.

NEW YORK, January 6, 1868.

BURNETT'S STANDARD PREPARATIONS rank high among the leading staples in our line of trade. Experience has taught us that a reputation so wide-spread and enviable as that enjoyed by the articles of their manufacture, can only be earned by genuine merit.

Yours, respectfully,
DAMAS BARNES & CO.

The above expresses the opinion of dealers generally. For sale wholesale and retail by all druggists and dealers in medicine.

Burnett's Oriental Tooth Wash

Is a preserver of the teeth, and beautifies them without injury to the enamel. In this respect it stands alone. The evidence of Chemists and of the Dental Faculty substantiates these facts.

Burnett's Florimel

Closely resembles the odor of a rare and delicate boquet of flowers, and in this respect stands unrivalled. A few drops will leave its peculiar and delightful fragrance upon the handkerchief for many hours.

Vast sums of money are thus annually worse than thrown away, and by the time the Vines and Plants should produce fruit, the party who furnished them is out of reach, and the planter has no recourse.
Failure in Small Fruit Culture is generally the result of a choice of inferior varieties and poor stock. We GUARANTEE our stock to give ENTIRE SATISFACTION in GENUINENESS, QUALITY, PRICES, and, with proper culture, YIELD OF FRUIT.

The Pittsburgh Gazette.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, March 26, 1869.

Yesterday being Good Friday, there was nothing done at the stock exchange. In our local market a great pressure for money is noticeable among all those who have to rely on strict accommodations, and high rates of interest were offered; but parties who have the necessary cash are not anxious to discount, but prefer to see what will turn up in the next few days. Parties in good credit find their wants supplied by the banks, and bankers are fully prepared for a tight market.

Business is still dull, and although reported with signs of greater activity after quarter day, yet so far it has amounted to nothing more than good prospects.

Money, twelve per cent. for outside paper, and from fifteen to eighteen is offered for second grade.

(By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

NEW YORK, March 26, 1869.

To-day, being Good Friday, was a partial holiday in the stock market. The Stock Exchange and Gold Room were closed, and the inclemency of the weather prevented many dealings on the street. The Banks were open as usual, and the demand for discounts was about the average amount. The rate was firm at 7 per cent., while outside transactions were made at the legal rate, with a commission of 1-32@1-16 per cent., and 7 per cent. gold. Further large orders were received to-day for currency from the interior, and small bills are scarce. The shipments of greenbacks for the week are estimated at a half million to Philadelphia and Baltimore. Sterling is dull at 8@8¼ per cent. premium for sixty days. Gold is steady at 131⅛@131¾, with a trifling business.

Governments are dull and heavy, with a light business and a decline of ⅛@¼ per cent. from yesterday. Coupons of '81, 116@116¼; do. '62, 118¼@118¾; do. '64, 114¼@114¼; do. '65, 116⅜@116¾; new do., 113¼@113½; do. '67, 113¼@113⅜; do. '68, 113⅛@113½; 10-40s, 105@105¼; Pacific Sixes, 114¼.

No business in State Bonds!

The railway market is dull, and the only sales were 1,200 shares New York Central, 700 Fort Wayne, 400 Northwestern, and 200 Michigan Southern. The latest quotations were, New York Central, 162¼@162¾; Erie, 134@134¾; Ohio and Mississippi, 132¼@132¾; Reading, 91¼@91½; M. S., 96¾@96⅞; Rock Island 132¼@132½. In Miscellaneous shares there were some transactions made in Pacific Mail at 88¾ down to 88; Western Union 37¾@38; Mariposa common 19¼@19½, and preferred 34⅛@35. Express shares dull. American and Merchants Union 41.

Mining shares are higher. Smith and Parmlee, 160; Gregory, 285; Quartz Hill, 92.

The receipts at the Sub-Treasury today were $1,234,763: payments, $1,087,684; Balance, $94,319,839.

Dry Goods Market.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Although this is Good Friday and the weather somewhat inclement, trade is nevertheless fairly active in cotton goods and Yankee notions, but in woolens and most classes of imported fabrics business is still inert and prices depressed. Plain cotton fabrics are in moderate demand at slightly reduced prices for fine grades. Atlantic A brown sheetings 16½c, Appleton A and Clark's 16c, Dewright W and Lawrence F 14c, Roxbury A 15c, Stark A 15¾c, Freemont C 12½, Pepperel N 12c, do O 13c, do R 14c. Bleached Muslins steady, but a little weak for certain makes. Colored Cottons steady, in fair request, and prices rule quite uniform. Delaines depressed, and good enough styles of Hamilton can be had at 17c, but fresh styles bring 20c.

CLEVELAND, March 26.—Flour steady and quiet: city made is quoted at $10,25@10,50 for treble extra white; $8,50@8,75 for double extra amber; $7,50@7,75 for double extra red winter; $6,50@6,75 for extra red; country made: $7@8 for double extra red and amber; $6,25@7 for double extra spring; $9@9,50 for double extra white winter. Wheat: sales 1 car No. 1 red winter at $1,40; sale 1 car No. 2 do at $1,30. Corn is held at 73@74c. Oats are held at 71c. No Rye is offered and is dull and nominal at $1,28@1,30 for No. 1; No. 2 at $1,25@1,27. Petroleum is excited and higher; refined is held at 30@32c for car lots; small lots are 2@3c higher.

ST. LOUIS, March 26.—Cattle Market—Cattle in good local demand but prices are unchanged at $4@7½.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, March 26, 1869.

There is but little to be said about the markets in a general way, with the exception that the improvement in business so long looked for has not yet taken place, although hopes are still entertained that it is near at hand, and that we will yet have a good Spring trade. As yet, however, the demand for almost everything is very much restricted, and the volume of business in the aggregate is light, while so far as values are concerned there are no important changes.

APPLES—In moderate demand, and with a limited supply, prices are well sustained $4@6 for fair to prime and $6½ for choice.

APPLE BUTTER—90@$1 per gal.

BUTTER—Is in steady demand, and we can report regular sales at 45@48 for prime to choice.

BEANS—In better supply—may be quoted at $3,50@$3,75.

BUCKWHEAT FLOUR—Dull; 3@3¼.

CRANBERRIES—Sales at $20@$25.

CHEESE—Sales of New York Goshen at 24@25.

CORNMEAL—$1,75@1.85 per cwt.

CARBON OIL—Is a shade stronger, with less offering, but the market is so irregular that it is difficult to give quotations.

DRIED FRUIT—Peaches steady at 14@15 for quarters; 16@17 for mixed and 18@20 for halves. Apples scarce and in demand at 11@12½ cts.

EGGS—Market a shade easier and the bulk of the sales to-day were at 26, though quotations may be given at 26@27.

HAY—Baled is dull but unchanged; sales of good to prime at $23@25.

HOMINY—$6@6,25.

HEMP—Quoted at $220 per ton.

PROVISIONS—The market is steady with a fair jobbing demand, but prices are unchanged. Sales of Bacon at 14½@ for Shoulders; Ribbed Sides, 16¾@17; Clear Sides, 18@18¼, and Sugar Cured Hams 19½. Steamed Lard, 19¼, kettle rendered, 20@20½. Mess Pork $32,50. Dried Beef 21.

POTATOES—In good local demand with regular sales, in store, at 80c per bushel.

PEANUTS—10 cts per pound.

GRAIN—Wheat continues quiet and unchanged—$1,43@1,45 for No. 1 Spring, and $1,55@1,60 for No. 1 Winter. Oats quiet; sales on wharf and track at 65@65½, and in store at 67@70. Rye continues very dull: sales at $1,40@1,42, and demand very light. Corn, also, is very dull but unchanged; sales white at 70, and prime yellow at 75@77. Barley dull; prime to choice Spring $1,90@2.

SEEDS—There is a very fair demand for Clover, with sales at $19@10,50, and Timothy at $3,50@3,75. Flaxseed quoted at $2,45@2,50.

SALT—Is quiet but steady, and is still quoted at $2 by the car load.

SORGHUM—60@65c.

FEATHERS—A shade firmer, and we now quote live geese feathers at 80 to the trade, and the usual advance in a retail way.

FLOUR—The demand continues light but prices are unchanged. Spring Wheat brands $6,25 to 6,75@7. Winter Wheat $7,50@8. Rye Flour $7,00@7,25. The following are the Pearl Mill prices for their brands of flour made of the best wheat: Pearl Mill three star green brand, in barrels, $9,90 in sacks $9,60; double extra in barrels $9,00, and in sacks at $8,90; Pearl Mill family in barrels, $8,40, and in sacks at $8,00, Spring Wheat brands in barrels $7,30, and in sacks $7,00. The Pittsburgh City Mills prices are as follows: Choice White Winter Wheat Flour, in bbls, $9,30, and sacks $9,00, choice Red Winter Wheat Flour, in bbls, $7,75, and in sacks $7,50; choice Spring Wheat Flour, in bbls, $7,30, and in sacks, $7 per bbl.

WHISKY—Highwines very dull: may be quoted in a jobbing way at 92@93.

LARD Oil—Sales No. 1 at $1,55@1,60, and No. 2, at $1,25@1,28.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, March 26, 1869.

The market was comparatively quiet to-day, the volume of business in the aggregate being light, and compared with yesterday, the feeling seemed to be weaker, and prices, particularly for Crude, were a shade lower. The Crude market appeared to be weak in anticipation of large receipts, as it is expected that the arrivals by river within the next few days will foot up 75,000, perhaps 100,000 barrels, and as a consequence there were more sellers than buyers. One thing that strengthens the belief that the receipts will be large, is the fact that are a great many sellers options out at better prices than those now prevailing, and it is but natural to suppose that a strong effort will be made by parties holding these options, to deliver the oil and get their money.

CRUDE—The market, as already noted, was dull and weak with a pretty strong pressure to sell, and compared with yesterday, prices have still further declined. We can report sales in lots of 6,000 bbls, seller till July 1st, at 15¼; 2,000 same delivery and option, at 15½; and 1,000 each May to December, (40 to 46,) at 17½.

REFINED—Also was very quiet and a little weak to-day, though the pressure to sell did not appear to be as strong as in the case of Crude. We have but a single sale to record, 2,500 bbls for June, seller, at 35. April was quoted nominally at 34@34¼; April and May at 34½; April to June at 34½@35; April to December at 36⅛@36¼; March at 31¾@32.

Washington Items.

There are nearly fourteen hundred applications already on file for the appointment of Consul at Frankfort-on-the-Main, and undoubtedly six hundred more will be filed during the next two weeks.

A report will be submitted in the Mississippi case within a day or so by the Reconstruction Committee. It will probably embrace two propositions, viz., to re-assemble the Convention, which shall re-submit the Constitution amended to the people, or authorize another vote on the Constitution, with its obnoxious clauses to be voted on separately.

The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations report favorably upon the treaty for the adjustment of claims with Mexico. There are to be two commissioners, one on each side, with an umpire, and all claims are included which grow out of orders of either government. The treaty was ratified some time ago by Mexico.

It is understood that President Grant only objected to those provisions of the Civil Tenure act which required him to communicate to the Senate the reasons for making removals during the recess of the Senate.

The Meadville Republican has been selected by the House of Representatives as one of the papers in Pennsylvania to publish officially the laws, resolutions, &c., of Congress, and public treaties. Two papers are designated in each State for this service.

Interested parties are urging the immediate action of the Senate on the Danish and other treaties negotiated by Secretary Seward, now pending before that body, but apparently without success, as it is probable that none of them will be taken up at this session. If, however, the Senate is convened in extra session, after the adjournment, it is possible that the Alabama treaty may be taken up and rejected for the purpose of giving the new Administration a fair field for new negotiations.

The delegation of the Society of Friends, who are here, had one or more interviews with the President. The Society of Friends will recommend, at the invitation of the President, ten or twelve of their number for appointment as Indian agents, to be assigned to a superintendency for the purpose of testing the experiment of treating the Indians on their peculiar plan. The locality where they are to be assigned has not been determined, but it will doubtless be some region where the exercise of their peculiar virtues is most needed, and where their experiment can be fully tried. The Friends themselves are not over-confident of success, considering the peculiar difficulties of the situation; hence the limited scale on which they begin their efforts. They will work with industry and patience to Christianize and civilize the savages.

It is settled that General Eli Parker, late of General Grant's staff, is to be the new Commissioner of Indian Affairs, it having been decided that, through an Indian, he is a citizen.

The President this afternoon gave audience to a delegation of Mississippi Republicans, to ask his assistance in securing the passage of the Mississippi Reconstruction bill now pending before Congress.

The President remarked that he had seen the bill reported, but he did not know in what shape it would pass Congress. He had conversed with at least three of the Reconstruction Committee upon the subject, and he did not think it likely that the bill would be passed in a form to bring peace to Mississippi. Still Congress had all the evidence on the subject before them. Colonel Perce here expressed confidence in the wisdom of Congress. The President said there was no way for the restoration of Mississippi by the action of Congress. To him (the President) the most feasible, the least expensive and the quickest way to restore the State seemed to be to give to the Governor of the State, who is also the Military Commander, time to appoint all the officers under the recent law of Congress; then resubmit the Constitution to the vote of the people, allowing all to vote who are qualified under the Reconstruction acts, and none others. Congress to select such articles as they deem necessary to be voted on separately, without allowing them to affect the Constitution as a whole. There were, he added, portions of the Constitution that might be rejected and perhaps ought to be.

A NEW YORK letter of the 24th says: This is the opening day with the Broadway, Bleecker street and Fifth avenue fashionable milliners—as the weather is delightful the fair are out in force to examine the new styles, which are distinguished, beyond those of all preceding seasons, for variety, elegance and extravagance. Flowers are more profuse than usual; demi-wreaths, with half opened buds and blossoms being the favorites. Leaves and mosses are of every conceivable variety. Marabouts are again coming in favor. Round hats are to remain, and feathers of all kinds are in favor. Marie Stuart fronts are voted down, as old maidish. As to prices, it need only be added that they are about an average of 5 per cent. higher than for the corresponding description of goods last spring.

FORWARDERS, in consequence of the continued cold weather, says the Rochester Union, have given up expecting an early opening of lake navigation this season. It is reported that the ice is thick all round the head of Lake Michigan, and that teams are crossing the Straits of Mackinaw on the ice. The recent weather at the Straits was much the coldest of the present winter. Lake Erie is also pretty thoroughly frozen. It is considered as probable that navigation will not commence so early by some weeks this year as it did in 1868. At several points on the lakes vessels are already loaded, and are waiting for the ice to move.

IN THE Black Hawk war of 1832, there served together Lieutenant Colonel Zachary Taylor, subsequently President of the United States: Lieutenant Robert Anderson, the hero of Fort Sumter; Lieutenant Jefferson Davis, and private Abraham Lincoln, of Captain Lee's company of Illinois Mounted Rangers. Gen. Anderson says that he mustered Abraham Lincoln in and out of the volunteer service on two occasions in 1832.

IT may interest our readers to know just what the Siamese twins are. A learned French naturalist, Isidore Geoffroy Sain Hillaire, puts them in the order Autositaires, as belonging to the family Monsnphaliana, and tribe Xiophopage, in his "Dictionary of Anomalies."

Political Items.

There is a movement on foot in New Hampshire for the formation of a new political organization in that State, to include as many conservative members of the Republican party and liberal members of the Democratic party as possible. The matter, this dispatch says, is now in the hands of twenty prominent men, ten of whom are Republicans, and ten Democrats. Private meetings have been held by them, and it is said the whole scheme will be made public in June next.

Ex-Postmaster-General Reagan, of the late rebel Confederacy, has written a letter, dated March 9, to the people of Texas, urging them not to identify themselves with the Democratic party. He expresses the hope that they will take no action, as partisans, on the subject of the new Constitution, and that they will hold no convention to nominate a Democratic State ticket.

THE Philadelphia North American says: The recent annual report of the Pennsylvania Railroad did not make any mention of the Fort Wayne connection, because of the strange conduct of Gen. Cass in keeping in his fire-proof, without action, for six months, an agreement between the two companies that had been maturely considered and deliberately agreed upon. Under such circumstances there was no other alternative than to take up with the Pan Handle and Columbus route, which was done. When the matter was disposed of, the Pennsylvania Company went to the rescue of the Fort Wayne road, and have succeeded in defeating its enemies. The circumstances are fraught with useful lessons, if General Cass and his Pittsburgh friends will ouly heed them. The result gives the Pennsylvania Railroad the control of both routes to Chicago, and leaves the Erie without any direct approach to that great city. The victory has been won brilliantly, and deserves to be remembered. The Pennsylvania Central is still the dominant power of the Western trade.

ASSIGNEE'S SALE.

10th Day of April, 1869,

At 10 o'clock A. M., the following described Real Estate of JOSHUA RHODES, Bankrupt, subject, however, to existing liens, viz.:

All that lot of ground, situate in the First ward of the City of Allegheny, county of Allegheny, and State of Pennsylvania, bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a point 132 feet 3 inches southwardly of Rebecca street, 14 inches westwardly from the line dividing out-lots numbers 23 and 24 in the Reservetrac opposite Pittsburgh; thence parallel with said line southwardly 445 feet 3 inches to Bank Lane; thence along

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

Notice to Our Readers.—Any subscriber proposing to remove on the first of April, should leave the number of his present residence, and of that to which he designs removing, at our counting room, so that his paper may be left without interruption by the carrier.

Dull.—Business at the Mayor's office has been extensively dull for a few days past.

Titusville has had a real case of hydrophobia. Will Mayor Brush look to the dogs of Pittsburgh?

City Councils.—A regular meeting of City Councils will be held Monday afternoon, at two o'clock.

Attention is directed to the advertisement of drug store for sale, in another column. This is a rare chance for a bargain.

The Lock-up.—The Mayor's court will not be as lively this morning, as usual, as the number of visitors in the lock-up was comparatively small.

Logan is the name of the champion velocipedist of Western Pennsylvania. It will require smart practice on the machine to retain that proud title.

One solitary individual appeared before Mayor Drum yesterday morning. He had been intoxicated the evening before, in consideration of which a free pass was furnished him to the house on the Hill.

A Rare Chance.—To persons in search of a small house at a moderate rent in a desirable portion of the city, a rare chance is offered. Call at 111 Water street, for three days. See advertisement in this morning's paper "For Sale."

Killed in a Coal Mine.—John Davis, a coal miner, while working in a coal mine, near Ireland Station, on the Allegheny Valley Railroad, yesterday morning, was killed by the falling of a quantity of slate, or "horseback," from the roof of the pit.

Smythe's American Theatre.—A brilliant entertainment is announced to take place at the Varieties to-night, embracing the strength of the entire company of stars now performing at that establishment. Monday night, new people and new attractions.

"Ecce Homo," the wonder triumph of mechanical genius, the automatical steam man, with heart and lungs of iron, while awaiting a larger hall where thousands can visit him, as thousands have done elsewhere, is now on exhibition at No. 25 Sixth (St. Clair) street.

Y. M. C. A. Monthly Meeting.—The regular monthly meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association will be held in their rooms, No. 23 Fifth avenue, this (Saturday) evening at 7½ o'clock. Members are earnestly requested to be present, as business of importance will be transacted.

Sewickley Residence at Auction.—A house of twelve rooms, on a two and two-third acre lot, between Osburn and Sewickley, is to be sold on Tuesday next at two o'clock. If your are in quest of a real nice place, give this sale your attention. The owner is moving west, hence the sale. A. Leggate, Auctioneer.

Body Found.—Yesterday afternoon the body of an infant was found buried near the fence enclosing the Avery College grounds. A man was engaged in repairing the fence and while digging a post hole struck the body. It was apparently that of a very young child and had evidently been buried some time, as decomposition had taken place.

Died of Heart Disease.—Celia Hart, wife of Edward Hart, a blacksmith residing on Cherry alley, fell from her chair and expired instantly, at her residence, yesterday morning. Coroner Clawson was notified of her sudden death and held an inquest on the body yesterday evening. The jury found that deceased came to her death from heart disease.

Clothing Found.—Yesterday at an early hour a soft felt hat, brown cloth coat and vest were picked up on Ridge street, Allegheny, near the railroad crossing, by a citizen, who took them to the Allegheny Mayor's office. The articles were neatly folded up and laid along side of a fire plug. They were soaking wet, doubtless with the rain which fell some hours previous to the time of their discovery. The owner can have them by calling at the Allegheny Mayor's office and identifying his property.

Rare and Beautiful Stuffed Birds at Auction.—Monday, March 29th, at 10 A. M. and 2 and 7 P. M., at Masonic Hall Auction Rooms, 55 and 57 Fifth avenue, the rarest collection of Stuffed Birds ever offered in this city, embracing the rarest specimens and richest plumage of the East and West Indies, South America and our own country. Sale positive and without resume. For particulars, &c., see advertisement of H. B. Smithson & Co. Birds now on exhibition.

Served Him Right.—The Methodist Church at Haimersville presented their pastor, Rev. T. H. Colhouer, on the 18th instant, with a superb copy of Dr. Kittoe's Illustrated History of the Books of the Bible, bound in turkey, with an envelope containing some of the "one thing necessary," as an evidence of their appreciation of his services. Rev. Henderson, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, made the presentation speech, after which the pastor thankfully received the presents, assuring the kind donors that the only object of his labor among them was their present and eternal happiness.

Dangerous Traveling.

Yesterday morning a driver employed by Messrs. A. & D. H. Chambers, in driving down the Monongahela wharf to one of the boat landings with a wagon load of merchandise, neglected to lock the wheels, and the horses being unable to hold the vehicle started to run and were only checked from running into the river by coming in contact with a pile of freight lying on the wharf near the water's edge. The horses were considerably injured by the shock and the wagon somewhat damaged, but the driver fortunately escaped injury.

That Fire Alarm Telegraph, Again.

In Thursday morning's issue we had occasion to refer to the general inefficiency of the Allegheny Fire Alarm Telegraph, and of the trouble and annoyance to which the firemen were subjected by reason of its failure to work properly. The matter has since received the careful attention of the Committee on Fire Engines, of the City Councils, and the Chief Engineer of the Fire Department, with a result which more fully than any previous experience justifies and substantiates the strictures which were passed upon the line, and demonstrates its practical failure as it at present stands. The test to which it was subjected was made yesterday afternoon, and was of the most thorough character, clearly developing its defective workings, with, possibly, the remedy for the evil.

Previous to commencing operations the Committee sounded a test alarm from box 42, at the corner of North alley and Sandusky street, Third ward. To this the General Grant Engine, and the Columbia Hook and Ladder Company received the proper signal and arrived at the point indicated, while the Ellsworth received the wrong signal and went to Manchester. The other companies failed to respond.

In making the test afterwards one Committeeman was placed with a tallyist at each of the engine houses and at the Central Office, while the Chairman, Mr. John Megraw, and Chief Engineer Crow, went to the different boxes throughout the city and sounded an alarm from each, making a tally of the boxes struck as they proceeded. The examination continued all the afternoon, every box but No. 8 being struck. After going over the line in this manner, the Committee reassembled at the Central office and compared lists, when it was found that out of thirty-nine boxes from which an alarm had been sounded, but four, Nos. 2, 3, 4 and 32, gave the proper signals throughout, and many failed to respond at all. The boxes located east of Federal street seemed to be the most effective, those on the west side apparently being altogether out of order.

The result of the investigation convinced the committee of the importance of having the line thoroughly overhauled and put in order, and the necessity of the greatest care and attention in its future management. Previous to the engagement of the present Superintendant, it had received no regular attention, which to a great extent, accounts for the deterioration which it seems to have experienced. For a week past he has also been unable to attend to his duties, on account of sickness, otherwise the department and his care might have exhibited a different result yesterday. The whole system is so constructed that to be kept in order it should be tested, at least partially every day, and the cause of the smallest deviation from proper working at once searched out and remedied. It will, however, be once more put in order, and regulated in a somewhat different manner than heretofore, when if it fails to answer the purpose designed, it will be abandoned, This course will certainly be a much wiser one than continuing as heretofore, with an expensive but unreliable method, which, instead of making more effective, only hinders the effectiveness of the Fire Department—one of the most important interests under the care of the city government.

Sentenced on Three Indictments.

James Dunn, convicted some two weeks since of larceny, and against whom there were two indictments pending, one charging him with highway robbery and the other with aggravated assault and battery, was brought into Court yesterday, and through his attorney, Mr. Cochran, plead guilty to the indictments against him, and was sentenced in the three cases. Judge Stowe, who pronounced the sentence, referred to the surprising progress the prisoner, who is quite a young man, had made in crime, and stated that although his duty under the law was an imperative one, he performed it in sorrow rather than in a spirit of anger, and hoped that the speedy retribution with which his crimes had been visited would be a warning to him in future and induce him to lead a better life. He then proceeded to pronounce the sentence, as follows: On indictment No. 261, December Term, upon which the prisoner had been convicted of larceny, he was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution, a fine of six cents to the Commonwealth and undergo an imprisonment of two years in the Western Penitentiary; and in No. 276, March Term, to which the prisoner plead guilty, fine and costs as above and imprisonment in the Penitentiary for a term of three years, the same to take effect and commence at the expiration of the former sentence, and in the other case, in which he plead guilty to highway robbery, imprisonment in the Penitentiary for one year, to take effect from the date of the expiration of the sentence in No. 276.

The prisoner evinced no emotion whatever while the sentences were being pronounced, notwithstanding the fact that his father, who is one of our most respectable citizens, was sitting immediately in front of him, weeping bitterly.

Fatal Accident—Coroner's Inquest.

Coroner Clawson held an inquest yesterday morning, at Devore's, on Grant street, on the body of John Kearney, who was killed Thursday evening about six o'clock, near the Round House of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, by being run over by an engine. The deceased was not sound in mind, and it appears was riding on the pilot of the engine, which was shifting cars for the purpose of making up a train. A number of boys who knew Kearney were following the engine and throwing stones at him. The engine had been backing down the track and stopped, when Kearney stepped off and just at that instant it appears the engine was started forward and the pilot caught his foot, throwing him across the track and one of the truck wheels passed over his body before the engine could be stopped. No one on the car it appears knew that Kearney had been riding on the pilot until after the accident occurred. The jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

A Troublesome Present.

Several days since Mr. Neil McCallion, keeper of an oyster saloon on Sixth (St. Clair) street, received from a friend residing in the Pine Regions up the Allegheny river, a young wild cat. The animal was placed in a temporary cage in the yard at the rear of the gentlemen's premises, in order that it might be tamed. Thursday afternoon, as a company of visitors were gazing at the animal, and amusing themselves by teasing it, it broke from the cage, causing the tormentors to beat a rapid retreat, and finally ensconcing itself in an outhouse in the premises adjoining. It has since remained in its new quarters, and seems contented to make the place its permanent abode. It can hardly be caged again, and will quite likely have to be shot.

Grand Opening at E. R. Gardiner's Dry Goods Store, West Corner of Market Street and Fourth Avenue, on Tuesday, March 30th, 1869.

The event of next week in the dry goods business will be the grand opening of new goods at the popular, extensive and well managed emporium of Mr. E. R. Gardiner, west corner of Market street and Fourth avenue, (No. 69 Market street). This house has long been favorably regarded by retail patrons, always retaining front rank among its contemporaries by carrying a fine stock of desirable goods suitable to the season, and by strict adherence to an universal system of reasonable prices which pervades in every department. The enterprising and considerate proprietor never permits himself to follow others in the introduction of new styles, patterns and novelties, but simultaneously with, or in advance of his neighbors, he presents his patrons with innovations as rapidly as they appear in the eastern markets. The coming opening will amply demonstrate this, as the stock, which is now daily arriving and being arranged for the occasion of next Tuesday, is one of the finest and most inducing that has been opened for many years in this city, and while it is so superior in character, assortment and quality, the prices which we observed marked on the goods will prove doubly tempting and attractive to the purchaser, providing economy in buying is still an item of consideration with our fair readers. We had proposed to run through the many attractive features of the new stock, and lay a semi-fashionable contribution from our pen before our lady readers, but regret that a desire to furnish a few of the quotation prices, deeming that a much more important topic, precludes our entering into detail in that direction. Without any apology we present the following figures: Mixed Poplins, of fine quality, 25 cents per yard. Wash Poplins, a beautiful mixture, as low as 31 cents per yard. Silk mixed French Poplins, four quarters wide, 37½ cents per yard, which may be regarded as a specially attractive bargain. An endless variety of choice mixed striped Chena Poplins, for street costumes, range in prices from 37½ cents up to $1.25 per yard. Real Irish Poplins, perfect gems of beauty, are marked at $1.50 per yard, and really worth $2.50. Table Linens and Linens of all kinds are marked down at very low figures, for instance, bleached Damask Linen, full two yards wide, is to be sold at $1.00 per yard, worth $1.50. Bleached Loom Linens, one and three-quarters wide, are marked at 50 cents, which renders them special bargains. Full lines of black Silks of durable quality range from $1.00 to $4.50 per yard, which, on examination, will convince the reader as being very cheap. A splendid variety of Spring Shawls and Lace Manties are offered at old time prices, and are by no means the least attractive portion of the stock. Cassimeres, Cloths, Tweeds, Jeans, and all other goods of that character, are marked down at the lowest marginal profits. But we cannot go through the entire stock with our list of quotations, preferring to permit our friends to attend the grand opening on Tuesday next, examine the goods for themselves, and pass judgment on the reasonable prices. A full complement of attentive clerks will be in attendance to wait upon visitors, who may visit the store either to purchase or to examine the stock.

New Spring Goods at William Semple's, Nos. 180 and 182 Federal Street, Allegheny.

Mr. William Semple has just arrived home from the Eastern cities, where he purchased from first hands a very large Spring stock of new dry goods, which are daily arriving and being opened at his commodious wholesale and retail store rooms, Nos. 180 and 182 Federal street, Allegheny. The stock has been judiciously selected by Mr. Semple himself, than whom no other merchant better understands what suits the market, and will be found to comprise all that is new and novel. Every department of the establisement rejoices in new goods, and the purchaser can have little trouble in making choice. The prices in the Eastern markets were slightly depressed at the time the heaviest portion of the stock was purchased, so that Mr. Semple is prepared to offer his goods at even more favorable figures than have hitherto won for his house the proud distinction of selling at popular figures. Dealers and country merchants, who buy to sell again, in making their purchases in the cities, or preparing their orders for spring stocks, should not overlook Mr. Semple's establishment, for they can elsewhere buy to no better advantage or secure wider range for selection. Retail purchasers know the house too well to render commendation to them necessary.

The National Peace Jubilee.

An invitation has been extended by Prof. E. Tourjée, Musical Director and organizer of the great National Peace Jubilee to take place in Boston, June 15, 16 and 17, 1869, to the amateur singers of this city to participate in the occasion. Prof. W. H. Lawton, to whom was addressed the invitation, has set to work to organize a choral club for the occasion, of ladies and gentlemen, establishing his headquarters at the Music store of Barr, Knabe & Buettler, No. 12 St. Clair street, where applications for membership should at once be made. The Festival will be the grandest musical epoch in American history. It will be held in a colliseum to be especially erected for the occasion, which will comfortably seat over fifty thousand persons. Pittsburgh should be well represented on the occasion, for if there is one thing above another for which our people are conspicuous, it is their ardent love for good music.

Policemen Dismissed.

Two members of the police force were informed by His Honor Mayor Brush, yesterday morning, that the city had no further need of their services. The Mayor and Chief of Police are laboring faithfully to render the force efficient, and so far have succeeded beyond their own expectations, and the plan they have adopted is to discharge every man who neglects his duty or in a way violates the rules for the government of the police.

The men who were discharged yesterday, it is stated, after reporting at the office for duty and answering to roll call, instead of going on duty and remaining there the time required, repaired to a house of ill-fame, where they remained several hours.

That Two Story Brick Dwelling House, in East Birmingham, on Carson street, between Railroad and Page streets, having twenty feet front on Carson street, running back 120 feet to Carey street, containing six rooms, hall, &c. Will be sold at auction on Tuesday, March 30th, at 2 o'clock P. M. on the premises. ST.

Every lady should have one of those nice shopping satchels, for sale at Liebler's, 104 Wood street.

The Opening at Barker's—Immense Crowd—The Stock of Goods.

As was announced in Thursday's Chronicle, the grand opening of Spring and Summer Cloaks, Sacques and Suits, took place at J. W. Barker & Co.'s dry goods house, No. 59 Market street, yesterday morning. The occasion seemed to be an important one to our citizens generally, as crowds thronged the store throughout the entire day. The exhibition was a success in every particular, and few of our readers, we venture to say, have ever had the opportunity of examining a more extensive stock of such goods as were offered yesterday by Messrs. Barker & Co. The intention of the exhibition was simply to give the ladies a chance to inspect the different styles of garments, to comment upon them, and to determine in their own minds which, of the many styles displayed, they would prefer. We feel confident that not one of the crowd who visited the store can complain of a lack of variety, as all the latest styles in all the various materials were represented. Some of the cloaks and sacques were of the finest fabrics elaborately trimmed, while others were finished more plainly. All the styles, however, had their admirers. The display of suits was particularly fine, and included all the latest materials. While all were attractive in appearance, there were several suits which seemed to satisfy every one who examined them. The garments were made in the best style, and afforded ample evidence of the facilities possessed by the firm for filling orders which may be entrusted to them. Those who wish to purchase cloaks or sacques should not fail to call at Barker & Co.'s.

Before concluding, we would call attention to the fact that the firm is offering an immense stock of new spring goods which have been received. This stock embraces every variety of dress goods, from the finest silks to the domestic prints, including all the latest styles of materials. A full line of housekeeping goods is also included in the stock. Wholesale and retail purchasers will find it to their advantage to inspect the assortment. The firm has a resident partner in the East, and being in the market constantly, is able to take advantage of every change, which advantage will consequently inure to the benefit of their patrons

Laugh and Grow Fat.

Coming up Wood street yesterday we met a very elegantly dressed and handsome young lady, mouth and cheeks as tempting as red apples in an orchard, and laughing all over at one time. Being slightly acquainted with her she stopped us and said: "Dogon knows, I feel as happy as a baby in a sugar barrel." Of course I asked her why, and imagine our surprise when she said, "Well, Pa gave me one hundred dollars to buy a trunk, satchel and some other articles necessary to take my usual spring trip, and by good luck I dropped in at Joe Liebler's and got the handsomest outfit in his line in this city for less than half what I formerly paid other houses, consequently have the balance saved, which, of course, I'll return to Pa." To the reader: Liebler, at 104 Wood street, does sell you all kinds of trunks for traveling for one-half what you formerly paid, and warrants them to be the very best. Go and see for yourself.

Enlarged and Improved.

Mr. Charles C. Baer, the well known wholesale dealer in chewing and smoking tobaccos, snuffs, cigars, pipes, &c., No. 108 Wood street, has greatly enlarged and improved his store room, and is now, better than ever, prepared to meet the requirements of his large and rapidly increasing trade. Mr. Baer keeps constantly on hand, a magnificent assortment of goods peculiar to his line, and sells at prices as reasonable as can anywhere else be obtained. His Spring stock is very complete and offers to the trade great inducements, both in variety and prices. We commend Mr. Baer to the patronage of our readers, knowing him to be honorable and fair dealing, and always up to the requirements of his customers.

A Luxury

To the habitual smoker there is, perhaps, no greater luxury than a good segar. If excited and nervous it has a tendency to allay the excitement and steady his nerves; if angry or agitated, no matter what the cause, a few puffs at a "red seal," "little pet," or any other good segars, smooths his temper and calms his agitated mind. We would advise all who wish to luxuriate in the enjoyment of a first class segar to call at No. 45 Hand street, John Megraw's, where a full stock of tobacco, segars, snuff, pipes, &c., are always kept on hand and for sale, wholesale or retail.

Where to Purchase.

W. W. Moorhead, No. 81 Market street, has opened up a large and varied stock of dress trimmings, fancy goods, &c., &c., at his establishment, to which he invites the attention of ladies purchasing spring outfits. The stock embraces everything usually offered for sale in a first class trimming and fancy dress goods store, and in price, quality, and style will be found fully equal to anything ever offered in Pittsburgh. Those of our readers who desire anything in this line should remember 81 Market street, and not forget to call before purchasing elsewhere.

At Auction, Monday, March 29th, at 2½ o'clock, P. M., will be sold, No. 409 Penn street, 24 feet front, running back 100 feet to Mulberry alley, now occupied by Schmidt & Friday, liquor business and distillery. The cellar is the whole depth of the lot, the rear warehouse and distillery fronting on Mulberry alley. This is a rare chance such as is not frequently found, to procure a piece of property that must necessarily continue to advance in value; the same must likewise be said of Nos. 219 and 221 Penn street, between Eleventh and Twelfth streets, adjoining the National Trust Company, 24 feet front, running back 100 feet to Mulberry alley, will be sold immediately after the above is sold.

Queensware, Bristol-ware, &c., &c.

We have heretofore called the attention of our readers to the wares manufactured at the Keystone Pottery, S. M. Kier & Co., proprietors. We desire, however, to do so again, from the assurance we feel that in no other establishment in this city can they be better suited, either as regards price or quality. The Queensware and Bristol-ware on exhibition, and which is being daily disposed of at their warehouse, No. 363 Liberty street, is fully equal to that heretofore imported, and for which much higher prices, in many instances, have been paid. Those who may doubt this statement should visit the warehouse, whether they wish to purchase or not, and satisfy themselves by a personal inspection of the wares manufactured. Remember the place, 363 Liberty street.

Good Appointments.

The new Cabinet appointments are received with general favor throughout the country, and the appointments at the well established and largely patronized Continental Dining Saloon, over which our worthy friend and fellow-citizen Mr. Holtzheimer presides with so much ease, grace and dignity, are superior to those of any other establishment of its character in the city. Everybody and everybody's friends who have ever visited the Continental and taken a meal there are fully aware of this fact, and those who have not yet been there have only to call and take a square meal to be convinced of its truthfulness. Everything is kept in the most perfect order, and meals are served at all hours at the most reasonable prices.

What They Will Do.

Dr. Ross' Remedies are purely vegetable preparations, and are doing more good to the people than any other medicines ever offered to the public. They are sold at one dollar per bottle, and generally one or two bottles have the desired effect. We make a specialty of the following diseases, and warrant a cure in every case: Acute or Chronic Rheumatism, Catarrh, we have cured hundreds of cases, some of long standing; Dyspepsia, we believe we have the best remedy for this disease ever compounded. For diseases of the Throat and Lungs our Tar Compound is doing wonders. Dr. Ross' Remedies are manufactured and for sale wholesale and retail, at Nos. 26 and 28 Sixth street, (late St. Clair.)

Miss Judith Russel, of New Bedford, writes: I have been afflicted with severe prostrating cramps in my limbs, cold feet and hands, and a general disordered system. While visiting some friends in New York, who were using PLANTATION BITTERS, they prevailed upon me to try them. I commenced with a small wine-glass full after each meal. Feeling better by degrees, in a few days I was astonished to find the coldness and cramps had entirely left me, and I could sleep the night through, which I had not done for years. I feel like another being. My appetite and strength have also greatly improved by the use of the PLANTATION BITTERS.

CAUTION.

The great popularity, on account of its salutary medicinal effects, of SQUIRE'S LONDON EFFERVESCING BI. CARB. Those desiring the true Potassa can obtain it from Messrs. J. C. MATTERN, J. B. CHERRY, J. E. BURNS & CO. and S. K. NORGRAVE.
